Carter to receive negative cooperative report

DIETER KRIEG

HINGTON, D.C. — National Commission Review of Antitrust and Procedures ded its study of far- ooperatives this week will be sending a ve report to both the House and the U.S. ey General. The ission was formed five s ago and has been g for modification of apper-Volstead Act, gave birth to farmer ratives. President authorized the study lected the members of ommission, none of whom have a background in cooperative law.

Although none of the Commission's recommendations carry legal weight, their findings could perceivably be interpreted into law during coming sessions of Congress. That has farmer- cooperative spokesmen worried and they point out that Congressman John Seiberling (D.-Ohio), had already introduced a bill during the past congressional seating which called for similar modifications of the Capper-Volstead Act.

The Commission's report, which is expected to be on President Carter's desk during the third week in January, recommends three major changes for farmer cooperatives.

1. It would restrict or limit mergers of common marketing agencies. While making this suggestion, however, the Commission conceded that farmers should have the right to collective bargaining.

2. The U.S. Secretary of Agriculture would no longer have the responsibility of determining whether or not cooperatives are "unduly

Experts say overall seed supply down

By JOAN LIESAU

LANCASTER – According to recent reports from experts at the annual Pennsylvania Seedsmen's meeting, the overall supply of seed is down approximately 10 per cent from last years supply.

When it comes to alfalfa we are in very very short supply" said Richard S. Bell, division manager of Stanford Seed. "We were hurt more than the country on the whole" he said in regards to the anthracnose resistant varieties of alfalfa. He said this particular variety was grown in an area where weather conditons were particularly adverse and they were hit harder.

Earl Rohrer, a retail seedsman, from P.L. Rohrer and Brothers of Smoketown, said we were in a definite shorter supply. The top disease resistant varieties of alfalfa will be allocated. He felt that retailers will have seed available throughout the season, but it may not be the particular variety that a farmer wants. Rohrer has some suggestions for the farmer "if they know what they are going to plant, they should place their orders in as soon as they can, to get their favorite varieties."

According to Joseph La Torre, director of corporate purchasing and inventory

Christmas activities listed

By KENDACE BORRY

LITITZ — The Christmas weekend is upon us and to help celebrate the event, there are many special activities planned everywhere. Each offers its own special touch to the holiday season.

A few of these special activities that have come to the attention of Lancaster Farming include the following:

The All-Aboard Railroad, which will run December 23, and December 26 through January 1, from 1 to 5 p.m. All the proceeds from the railroad will benefit the children at Christ's Home, Paradise. Located on Landis Valley Road, off Route 23, about ½ mile east of Eden, in Lancaster County, it will feature twelve American Flyer trains with automation and animation operating simultaneously.

For those that like to gaze upon the stars, the North Museum Planetarium, Lancaster, will offer its holiday show, "The Christmas Star". Located at

A Christmas Wish

Christmas.

What a great time of year! My own personal recollections are filled with nothing but the happiest of experiences, no matter what kind of hardships the family may have encountered

And yes, while the gifts were eagerly anticipated and opened, they're not really what makes Christmas memorable Whether I think of Christmas last year with my own three children, or reminisce about Christmas when I was a child myself, what makes it memorable is the feeling of warmth of love And that's really what Christmas is all about

In my opinion, it's a feeling which a person can't escape. Certainly, every person would want to experience it

As you and your loved ones celebrate Christmas this year - surrounded by warmth, love, and perhaps soft candlelight and sacred music - may you experience all the joys of this season, flavored with the dear thoughts of Christmases past - including the very first Christmas in a Bethlehem stable.

The story of Christmas is the story of a miracle. It is also the story of life in general an one life in particular. Again, it's a miracle. So, too, is the experience of Christmas a miracle which reveals comfort, love, and faith Christmas is a fabulous part of our lives. May you and yours be richly blessed with this precious gift of God

Dieter

COMMENTS FROM READERS

A farmer's life isn't easy

Dear Editor:

I would like to inform you that I am very pleased with your magazine as it gives the true facts about farming. This magazine does not hide anything; it is open to all. I wish that our government would realize and stop to think how hard a farmer has to work at least 14 hours a day, every day, seven days a week. And most all of the time he has no vacation and whatever we farmers need to protect ourselves with health insurance, fire insurance, compensation, social security, we pay out of our own pockets from work in all kinds of weather, hot, cold, freezing water and blowing snow. And we have to judge which way to go. We do our milking and then plow our driveway for the milk tanker to come in our yard before we can go eat breakfast. A farmer always has to be a step ahead and going forward.

My husband was born and raised on this farm 56 years ago, and now our son of 23 is farming the dairy farm for us. We have 45 milkers, eight first-calf heifers, some bred and open heifers, and five started calves. We raise all our own replacements. We just had our barns redone with used iron stanchios, concrete work, longer stalls for the comfort of the cows as they are bigger cows than what they were years ago. My husband could remember his father having purchased cows for $56 and nowadays a grade cow is $1000 and over. In those days 57 years ago you bought a 116 acre farm for $6500 and nowadays the same farm would bring $2000 an acre or more. In those days it was all hard work: work with horses. My husband worked with a team of horses at the age of 12. We haven't bought any new machinery in a long time. We have six used tractors, one Case tractor dates back to 1948. We have them repaired on the farm by a mechanic who doesn't want your hair and hide. The price of mechanics from a dealer's place is rediculous. We take the best care of our equipment and repair it as needed. This is the only way to try and stay out of debt. There are many farmers that I wonder how they are going to make a go. The

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

Internationl Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W ALTHOUSE

RECEPTION COMMITTEE

Lesson for December 24, 1978

Background Scripture:
Matthew 1:18 through 2:23
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 72:1-11

We really don't know who the wide men were. We know only that they were from the East and that they were probably astrologers of some kind.

Despite popular tradition that there were three, we don't know how many there were – Matthew doesn't specify a number. We don't know whether they rode camels, as usually portrayed, or walked. We don't even know whether they arrived on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day, only that it was sometime around the time "when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king" (Matthew 2:1).

Herod The Un-Wise

Obviously, Herod was not a "wise man," not in any sense of the term. He should have been a wise man, but he wasn't. Although he had great power, although he had fine resources and access to much wisdom and learning, Herod was not very wise.

Strangely enough, Herod knew that the child Messiah was sent by God, yet he obviously believed he could outsmart God. Man's greatest troubles and tragedies always occur when he assumes he can outwit his Creator.

Neither were the "chief priests and scribes" the wise men. Their foolishness is perhaps even greater than that of Herod. Herod had to come to them for their expertise in the scriptures. When, in response to his question about the birthplace of the Messiah, they said: "And you, O Bethlehem ... from you shall come a ruler who will govern my people Israel...", they demonstrated that intellectually, at least, they knew the right answers!

Right Answers, Wrong Reaction

Yet, for all their knowlege, they were not wise men either. They had the right answer, but they didn't know what to do with it. Or, better still, they knew what to do, but they didn't do it. So, instead of scribes and pharisees coming to the Christchild, instead of the religious elite discovering the newly-arrived Messiah, it was, rather, some strangers from the East who followed the star to the place where Jesus lay.

Luke tells us, instead of wise men from the East, of shepherds who came to worship the newborn King. Yet, in both Gospels, the welcoming committee is hardly the one we might have expected: shepherds and strangers rushed in where rulers and clergy feared to tread!

There is a relevance in Matthew's story even today.

Today, as then, one would expect the pious and the powerful to be the ones to recognize and worship God's Messiah. Yet, for the most part, it is an image they honor, while the real Christ comes unnoticed into their presence. The powerful still think they can outwit their God and the pious still have the right answers but the wrong reactions.

So, sometimes the true Reception Committee is composed of people who like those ancient astrologers from the East, would not fit comfortably in the pews of your local church.

NOW IS THE TIME...

TO BE PREPARED

...Winter weather can bring some serious emergencies with little warning. This would be the time to prepare the farm and the family for these emergencies. Food supplies should be adequate to last for several days in case of drifted snow. The same is true with medical and drug supplies. Inventories of gasoline, oil, or other fuel should be kept at a high level during the winter months. Folks who are traveling during the winter should go prepared with extra boots, clothing, dried or canned food, and other things that would help in case of being stranded on the highway. To be prepared for emergencies is good planning.

TO CONTROL LIVESTOCK PARASITES

...The winter feeding program is underway and parasite-infested livestock are poor money-makers. Body lice are often found on nearly all species of livestock; in cold weather the heavy hair coats makes it difficult to eradicate these pests. We urge two treatments at 12 to 14 day intervals for best results. Some cattle operators will have automatic louse control devices filled with an insecticide. This is excellent for efficiency, if materials are kept in the equipment. In milder weather cattle can be sprayed with the materials using cold water. Stomach worms should also be eradicated in order to make good use of high-priced feed. The local veterinarian can check fecal samples to determine the infection. Don't operate with parasite infestation of any kind.

TO CHECK STAND-BY GENERATORS

...The loss of electric power can really stop many farm operations. The investment in a stand-by generator is a "must" where feeders, fans, and water supplies depend upon electricity. Operators are urged to check this equipment, if it hasn't been operated recently, to be sure that it will meet the needs. Tractor powered generators can save enormous losses when ready for emergencies. Local farm machinery dealers can supply these generators, and perform service work on them. Don't be caught with one that will not work.

TO CHECK FIRE EXTINGUISHERS

...With farm buildings full of livestock and feed supplies it is very important that fires be prevented, and be controlled. Every farm should have one or more fire extinguishers handy and in good working condition. Every member of the family, or labor supply, should know where they are located and how to operate them. In many cases those few minutes between the discovery of the fire, and the arrival of the fire truck, can determine the extent of the loss. Also, farmers that are depending upon farm ponds to provide water for fire fighting should be sure that the fire truck can get within 25 feet of the pond; otherwise, the water in the pond cannot be used. At this time, be prepared for a fire emergency.

TO ALL OF OUR CUSTOMERS AND FRIENDS

We at Hershey Equipment want to say a "Special Thanks" to all of you for your loyalty and support of us, this year. It was truly a privilege to be of service to you.

December 21, 1978

Cattle - compared with previous week's close - slaughter steers closed firm to 50 cents higher and heifers 50-75 cents higher cows 50 cents higher, instances 1.00 higher and bulls were firm.

Four day receipts this week 15,500, last week 17,800, year ago 15,100.

Fed cattle prices advance sharply on the week's opening session, but a part of the upturn was eroded in midweek trading even on small supplies. There was an aggressive early demand, but most interests were number-counscious on the late rounds, looking toward the approaching long non-slaughter weekend. The overall finish of the steer and heifer supply was fairly attractive with a rather liberal percentage choice, but many consignments carried a substantial coating of mud; often mud and yield grade were primary price determining factors. Slaughter steers made up approximately 36 per cent and heifers 31 per cent. Cows comprised 12 per cent and feeders 8 per cent.

Agri Equipment a sale leader

MILFORD, Ind. — Agri Equipment Company of Ephrata is one of only five Chore Time dealers in North America to have had product sales of more than $1 million during the past 12 months, according to information released by Chore time headquarters, here.

The Lancaster County equipment firm was recognized at a recent meeting of Chore Time equipment dealers. A President's award came with the recognition and was accepted by Leon Martin of Agri Equipment

Care needed to prolong plant life

FLEMINGTON, N.J. - The beautiful flowering plants used for gifts and home decorations during the Christmas season will be a year round joy if one gives them reasonable care. Most of these plants can remain attractive long after the holidays, say experts.

All green plants require light. Placing flowering plants in a dark corner will cause their leaves to turn yellow rapidly.

These plants should be kept where the light is bright. Artificial light as well as natural light is helpful, but the intensity of artificial light found in most areas is low. Flowering plants are grown in bright greenhouses, and they last longest if kept in a bright location.

Home temperatures are satisfactory for most Christmas plants.

One exception is the cyclamen, which does best as temperatures fall below 65 degrees F. Temperatures to 50 to 55 are satisfactory for cyclamen, and a cool, bright sun porch is ideal for them.

Probably more plants are lost due to overwatering or underwatering than any other reason.

Plants, particularly those in clay pots, dry out rapidly when placed in a draft or near heating vents. They're also more difficult to water under these conditions.

Root suffocation and the eventual death of a plant can result if the soil remains wet for long periods.

One should judge the need for water by lifting the pot. The weight of the plant gives a good indication of the water requirement.

Water is normally applied to the surface of the planter soil. If plants are watered from the bottom by placing them in water, one should take care to prevent the soil from remaining too moist.

4-H Dairy club meets

EAST BERLIN - New officers were elected at the meeting of the Central Dairy 4-H Club on December 11 at the home of Roy Thompson, East Berlin R1.

President is Roy Thompson; vice-president, Kathy Rauhauser; secretary,Carol Mundis; assistant secretary, Angie Eyster; treasurer, George DeMers; assistant treasurer, Jonathan Myers; game leader, Kevin Laughman, assistant game leader, Christine Wolf; news reporter, Joey Welsh; assistant news reporter, Mike Welsh; and historian, Stephanie Hoffman.

Kathy Rauhauser was named to serve as chairman of the Exhibit Committee for the 4-H Expo.

The club members divided into teams and competed in a dairy bowl contest. All members received a t-shirt with "Milk's the One" printed on them.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Joey and Mike Welsh with a program by a veterinarian on parasites.

Scrapie indemnity raised

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Federal indemnity payments for sheep destroyed to stop the spread of scrapie, a disease of the central nervous system, have been raised to a maximum of $300 a head. The sheep industry asked USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS) to increase the rates because the market value of sheep greatly exceeds the old indemnity rates–$40 for grade animals and $90 for purebreds. The new payments are set at two-thirds of the apraised value of all sheep and goats–not to exceed $300. The value will be determined by qualified appraisers.

It's not enough to tell people to 'drink milk'

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

LEESPORT - "We can no longer tell people they should drink milk," stated Sid Barnard, "it's not enough." Barnard, a professor of food science at the Pennsylvania State University, was addressing the large number of dairymen gathered at the Berks County Agricultural Center, here, as The Berks County Extension service sponsored their annual Dairy Day.

Barnard, speaking on milk quality, was part of the day long affair held December 12, which included subjects ranging from calf and heifer feeding, management and dairy cow nutrition to milk marketing and how it is priced.

Continuing on milk quality, the Extension specialist told the area farmers that the quality and flavor of milk have a big part to play in how much milk people will buy. "What is it like when the consumer gets it?" he asked. Milk goes through alot of handling and not all of the problems are at the farm.

Retail samples average six days old from delivery to the processing plant and three days old from the cow to processing, he added. "I believe this is one reason why people are not buying the milk they used to," he said.

As part of a team testing retail milk samples from across the state, Barnard could explain some first hand findings gathered from the samples taken. "Ten yeas ago," he said, "we found that ten per cent of the samples were rated poor in flavor, in 1977, 63 per cent of 1184 samples had an objectionable flavor." Milk should have a pleasant, slightly sweet taste, have no odor or leave an after taste.

Causes for the poor flavor found in the milk samples varies. "Some," the food scientists explained, "have a strong feed or silage taste." This can be prevented by keeping the cows away from silage or off of pasture for two hours before milking. "It's not the morning milking which causes the problem," he explained, "the cows usually aren't eating then, it's the afternoon milking that causes the problem."

Other causes of poor flavor included vitamins, especially detected in low fat or skim milk. Rancidity was another major cause, which gives the milk a sour, bitter, soapy, taste. "This problem starts with raw milk," Barnard told the dairymen, and there is no removal equipment to take it out. Usually this problem is often found on the best farms with high milk producing herds.

Any cow that is milked over 365 days or otherwise lactating too long can be the problem maker. It only takes two or three cows in a fifty cow herd to make the milk taste rancid, he explained.

Most of our problems are here because milk is being held longer than it used to be. Times when milk was picked up, processed, and on the consumers door step in one day or over night are gone and we have to learn to live with this problem. Low protein levels was cited as another cause individual cows may be producing rancid tasting milk. Risers or air leaks in a pipeline could also cause off flavors the dairymen learned.

"Winter can cause an unclean flavor problem, making the milk taste "barny" or "cowy". This is usually caused by poor ventilation. Other concerns discussed for quality milk were antibiotics or added water. These factors can easily be tested for and prevented.

The proper use of drugs and identification of treated animals are very important practices. "We find very few samples with traces of antibiotics in them now, even the consumers may still believe otherwise," Barnard assured the dairymen.

Added water can accidently happen through the milking equipment. Don't wait until the fluid in the pipeline turns clear before switching it away from the milk tank, he advised. "It only takes a little milk to make the rinse water white."

Another factor which directly effects milk quality is how the consumer handles it," the food scientist continued. Twenty minutes of sunlight will cause the milk to have a cardboardy taste, and milk should be kept under 40 Degrees Farenheit at all times. "Milk tastes best cold and other flavors can not be picked up as easily."

Sanitation and packaging are also important factors effecting milk quality. To begin, the cows should be "reasonably clean" before milking and the milking equipment and bulk tank should be washed and sanitized regularly. "You have to do some close checking, especially with the automated equipment of today. It does clean itself" Barnard said. He also recommended that dryers be used to long lengths of plastic hose. "Most farms are doing a good job on bacteria counts," the speaker added, but again he emphasized that the 40 Degrees Farenheit temperature was the magic number. Accurate thermometers are essential, as is good cooling equipment.

He also advised using an udder wash with a good sanitizing agent and mentioned that sponges were not very good. Thousands of bacteria can be found in a small drop of water from a sponge, and they do not dry out between milkings.

Barnard also told the dairymen that quality milk starts with quality tests. The key is taking the samples, he warned. They should be clean, properly taken, and kept cold. The samples have to be put in an ice and water mixture between 33 and 40° F. Before the tests are taken the bulk tank should be agitated for at least five minutes, he added, and be sure the driver is doing these steps properly.

Barnard also told the dairymen that milk should be processed within 48 hours, which isn't always the case.

Big Ben, in London, is the name neither of the clock nor the tower, but of the bell that strikes the hour. It's named for Sir Benjamin Hall, who was commissioner of works when it was installed.

Tips given to keep your poinsettias blooming

MEDIA - You can enjoy the poinsettia you receive for Christmas beyond the holidays according to James J. McKeehen, Delaware County Extension agricultural agent.

Keep your poinsettia in a sunny, warm window but make sure it's not drafty. If there's danger of chilling at night, take the plant out of the window before you go to bed.

Try to maintain soil moisture at moderate and uniform levels. The soil should be neither too wet nor too dry. When the top of the soil is dry, water it.

After the plant stops blooming and the leaves begin to fall, gradually stop watering it. The leaves will soon turn yellow and fall.

Store the dried-off plant in a cool, dark basement at 50 to 60 degrees until April or May and water it lightly. Give it just enough to keep the roots and stems from drying out.

In May, cut the stems back 3 to 5 inches and repot the poinsettia. Then put the plant in a warm, sunny place in your yard and keep it watered and fertilized during the Summer.

Before cool weather sets in next Fall, bring the plant inside again and put it in a window facing south, where it will get lots of light. If plants are to flower they must be kept in darkness from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. from the 1st of October to Thanksgiving. It takes a lot of special care but some people like the challenge of trying to flower their 1978 Poinsettia for Christmas 1979.

Goodwill needs help

LANCASTER – Goodwill Industries is a comprehensive rehabilitation agency in Lancaster County with the purpose of providing a work adjustment program for handicapped people, which will enable them to return to competitive employment in the community.

The providing work adjustment is with the materials donated by the community. Within the different areas of job training, the materials are processed by the handicapped people.

Presently, Goodwill has run out of materials such as clothing, furniture and household goods. Since cold weather is here, there is a drastic reduction in the amount of donations of materials. Without materials, the handicapped have nothing with which to work and receive training. The handicapped may face a potential lack of work unless the community can respond to the urgent need for materials.

Goodwill needs your help. Please place your donations in a Goodwill Collection Box in your area, or call 717-394-0647 to schedule a pick-up.

Nutritious foods good for the holidays

NEWARK, Del. – Like wild birds trying to fatten up for the long Winter, Americans do a lot of eating between Thanksgiving and New Year's Day. Snacks and entertainment foods play a big role in the holiday festivities, says Delaware Extension home economist Sue Schaefer, but many of these foods do little for nutrition or health. Typical snacks such as potato chips, cookies, pretzels, candy, and soft drinks offer little more than unnecessary empty calories.

Whether entertaining family and friends or just adding special snacks for school-age children home for the holidays, Ms. Schaefer suggests experimenting with snacks that are nutritious as well as appetizing and attractive. One can use cookbooks, magazine and newspaper recipes, and library sources to plan healthful hot and cold snacks and hors d'oeuvres.

If chips and dips are popular in the home, one may want to replace the chips with fruit or vegetable slices. Raw mushrooms, cauliflower, broccoli, radishes, or turnip strips used with favorite dips may offer a tempting change for adults. And for children who may prefer milder-tasting raw vegetables, carrot sticks, celery sticks, green pepper sticks, or other family favorites can be used.

Fresh, frozen, or canned fruit can also be used with dips. Apple slices, pineapple chunks, banana pieces, or orange sections taste refreshing when dipped into lemon yogurt. One can create or choose their own fruit or vegetable combinations and dips, too.

Spreads and breads are also good snack and party foods. Either small party loaves or regular-sized loaves of bread cut into interesting shapes can be used. There are an endless number of spreads from which to choose, including meats, fish, seafood, and cheeses. Open-faced sandwiches can be served cold or hot depending upon the spread selected. Children can help spread and cut the sandwiches, which will give them an active part in holiday entertaining.

Cheese and crackers are also popular for snacks or hors d'oeuvres. One can choose from a wide variety of cheeses and cheese spreads to please her guests. As an interesting variation, slices or chunks of dry or summer sausage can be added.

For a nutritious change in liquid refreshment, one can select fruit juices, suggests Ms. Schaefer. Mulled cider or hot spiced cranberry juice tastes great on a cold day. Chilled juice in the refrigerator is always convenient for thirsty children. A cookbook can give more ideas for hot and cold juice drinks.

When preparing the holiday snacks and hors d'oeuvres, one can remember to observe the rules of food safety. A person should keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold! One shouldn't allow perishable foods to sit at room temperature for more than two hours, but set out small portions of dips, spreads, and other perishables, and refill as needed from the refrigerator.

One can make this a safe and nutritious holiday season at the house, says Ms. Schaefer. The good snack food habits developed over the holidays will serve well throughout the new year.

Award presented

COLUMBUS, Ohio - International Harvester Agriculture Equipment dealer, Clyde R. Morris, president of Morris International, Inc., Everett, Pa. has received the company's prestigious Dealer Civic Service Award.

Morris was one of only eight ag equipment dealers in the nation selected for outstanding civic leadership. He represented the International Harvester Agriculture Equipment Region covering 13 states in the northeast.

You save money, day after day, with corn-soy and Vigortone.

Want to save money on your swine rations? When you take charge of ration content and quality, you start saving from the very first day.

To take charge of ration content, buy only what you don't grow on your own farm. Then, grind and mix the rations yourself — fresh — from pre-starter through finishing. You'll never have to worry about freshness again. Better yet, these steps alone eliminate several middle-man costs and handling fees.

To take charge of ration quality, follow Vigortone fortified corn-soy feeding programs. Vigortone swine pre-mixes assure that your rations always contain proper levels of major minerals, trace elements, vitamins, and other nutrients. In addition, corn-soy and Vigortone furnish the right level and balance of all essential amino acids.

This simple approach keeps your out-of-pocket feed costs low. What's more, it actually promotes better feed conversion for lower cost of gain.

Your figures will prove it.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's low-cost swine feeding programs with any other you name.

Pork Congress agenda announced

Earl Butz

Tammy Moerer

HERSHEY - The program of the Keystone Pork Congress has been announced, with Earl Butz being the keynote banquet speaker, along with the National Pork Queen Tammy Moerer, at the February 16 event. The Congress will be held at the Hershey Motor Lodge, Hershey, and is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Pork Council.

The Congress will open at 8 a.m. Starting at 10 a.m. there will be two different sessions. Session A will be on producing feeder pigs. This session will include subjects on breeding herd housing by Robert Fritschen, breeding herd management by Dan Hagen, and a discussion led by the two after their speeches.

Session B, titled buying and selling feeder pigs will include feeding, growing and finishing pigs, presented by Grant Sherritt, and controlling health problems in newly purchased feeder pigs, by L. Hutchinson. A discussion will follow.

From 12-1:30 p.m. there will be a break for lunch. The general session will begin at 1:30 p.m. with housing the growing and finishing pig, presented by Fritschen.

At 3:45 both Sessions A and B will regroup for discussions on flat decks and other weaned facilities, by Fritschen, and the outlook for feeding pigs, presented by H.L. Moore.

The sessions will conclude at 5:15. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. with Earl Butz as the main speaker.

The Porkette's will also have their own program. At 10 a.m. there will be an election of officers and committees. Gail McPherson will speak at 10:30 a.m. Her speech is on defending your product. Following lunch, at 1:30 p.m., the Porkettes will see a fashion show.

A porcine heart valve seminar, presented by Dr. William Pierce and Dr. R.K. Balsara, will begin at 2:45 p.m. A craft demonstration will conclude the Porkette's program at 4 p.m.

Robert Fritschen

In addition to the speeches and discussions, a separate room will be set up with a computer terminal for persons interested in the various computer programs available in swine production. Virgil Crowley will be incharge of the computers.

Also, in same room, Lester Burdette will be demonstrating the programs available in the hand held programable calculator.

There will be 60 commercial exhibits and displays related to all segments of the swine industry.

Deadline for banquet tickets is February 2, 1979.

For further information, or banquet tickets, contact Mark F. Nestleroth, R.D. 5, Box 428, Manheim, Pa. 17545, (717-665-6220).

The goal of the Pennsylvania Pork Producers is to reach out to producers from New England, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, eastern Ohio, as well as Pennsylvania.

Turkey is a year round item

NEWARK, Del. – Those turkeys who managed to keep their heads through Thanksgiving can't necessarily breathe sighs of relief on Christmas Eve. Nowadays, a turkey isn't safe at any time of the year.

Turkey production in the U.S. is expected to hit record levels in 1978, says Delaware Extension Poultry Specialist George Chaloupka. That's because people are eating more turkey today – almost 10 pounds per person per year.

Obviously, Americans aren't eating turkey only twice a year anymore. While the whole roasted bird maintains its traditional popularity at family feasts, turkey is also finding its way onto our tables throughout the year. Part of the change is due to the fact that the turkey industry has been actively marketing new forms of turkey, such as turkey ham and salami, turkey roll, turkey bologna and sausage, smoked turkey, frozen turkey loaf and pot pies.

Traditionally turkeys have been grown during the Spring and Summer for processing during late Summer and Fall. October and November were the peak processing months.

But now that the consumer is able to buy turkeys whole, cut-up, and further processed at any time of the year, both production and consumption are beginning to show some evening out over an entire 12 month period.

According to USDA figures for 1978, turkey production totaled 228 million pounds during January through March; increased to 400 million pounds during April through June; increased again to 680 million pounds during July through September; and is estimated to total an additional 670 pounds in this final three month period of the year. And according to egg settings and poult hatches, the production outlook for the first half of 1979 is expected to be at least 20 per cent higher than the first half of 1978.

Turkey industry promotions and new products are making inroads into the seasonal consumption pattern. For instance, from 1963 to 1972, turkey consumption during the last three months of the year dropped from 57 per cent to 46 per cent of total consumption.

Ten years ago over 80 per cent of all turkeys were sold in the frozen state. Recently, however some consumers have come to prefer the chilled or ice-packed birds. While these consumers say the chilled birds taste better, Chaloupka doubts that anyone could really detect a difference in a controlled test.

Last year the National Turkey Federation interviewed 1000 consumers over the telephone. Over 60 per cent of those interviewed said they buy one or more whole turkeys because of a specific promotion campaign.

Although 85 per cent of the consumers buy frozen turkeys, about one-third say they actually prefer fresh turkeys, while one-third prefer frozen, and the remaining third don't care.

Over 60 per cent of those interviewed have a favorite brand of turkey. While one-fourth of the consumers had heard of turkey hot dogs, only three per cent had ever heard of turkey sausage.

The turkey industry is using the results of the survey to better meet consumer demands. They found that consumers do want more turkey available in many forms throughout the year.

VAN DALE®

The new MAGNUM 27 unloading action starts with more aggressive wall cleaners with replaceable knives. Coupled with the dual, 7 and 8 inch differential speed augers this combination gives better wall pressure for cleaner walls and maximum silage delivery to the impeller. The impeller is a large 27" diameter driven by an extra-heavy "C" section belt for more traction and longer belt life. There's still more — the MAGNUM 27 features quick release pins so you can fold the machine, maintaining perfect balance, and pull it to the top of the silo in minutes. This makes it easy to fill 'n feed. There's also a new compound radius chute and a new roller torque arm which is attached to a larger, heavier support triangle. Add it all up and you have a performance champ that will give years of service.

Juniata Co. DHIA names top producers

MIFFLINTOWN – The Juniata County Dairy Herd Improvement Association finished it's 55th year with 66 whole-year and 10 owner-sampler herds. An average of 3179 cows were on test. The average production per cow was 15,007 pounds of milk containing 570 pounds of butterfat.

The Pennsylvania Dairyman's Association awarded purple rosette ribbons to the two top herds in the county.

The C. Roy Henry Holstein Herd, Port Royal, was high in butterfat. The 49 cow herd averaged 18,650 pounds milk and 737 pounds butterfat.

The Kenneth Deamer Holstein Herd, Thompsontown, was high in milk. The 51 cow herd averaged 19,156 pounds milk and 719 pounds butterfat.

The Dairyman's Association also awarded gold rosette ribbons for average production per cow of over 600 pounds of butterfat to the following herd owners. Mark L. Zook, Mifflin; Elroy Saner, Thompsontown; Clyde D. Moyer, Thompsontown; Freeburn & Norman Love, East Waterford; John L VanHorn, Mifflintown; James L. Swartz, Port Royal; Elmer A. Noss & Son, Honey Grove; James C. Graham, Port Royal; Larry & David Noss, Port Royal; Donald Adams, Port Royal; Harold B. Shearer, East Waterford; Wilbur Harshbarger & Sons, Mifflintown; S.F. Metz, Mifflintown; Rodney Conrad, Millerstown; Leonard Queitzsch, Mifflintown; Charles Wochley, Mt. Pleasant Mills,; Lost Creek Farm, McAlisterville; Glen B. Simonton, Port Royal; and James & Trudy Wagner & Son. Mifflintown.

Over the past year, Juniata County has increased their average number of cows by 77 to a total of 3179. Those cows are producing 147 more pounds of milk then last years 14,860 pound average. Even though the pounds of milk increased, the pounds of butterfat produced was two pounds less than last years 572 pound average.

In comparison with the State, Juniata County had and average of 47.4 cows per herd, 7.9 cows below the state average. The County was only .1 behind the State's 86.2 per cent cow days in milk. For per cow averages: Juniata came out way ahead of the State with a 15007 pounds of milk average, 532 pounds more than the State's 14475 average. The County also showed a 22 pound gain on the State's 548 pounds of butterfat average per cow, with the per cent fat being the same. The County's value of milk was higher at 1529 compared to the State's 1498. The value plus/minus feed cost was 857 for the State and eight less, or, 845 for the County.

The County fed 585 more pounds of grain compared to the State's 5882 pounds fed. Hay, silage and other forages were less though. Hay fed, according to State averages, was 3967 pounds, while the County fed 3849 pounds. Silage and other forages fed by the State totaled 15,127 while the County fed substantially less at 13,674 pounds. The County averaged 13 more days on pasture (85 days) compared to the State's 72 days.

On the average Juniata County paid more for their feed then the State averaged over the past year. Grain costs were $10 more for the County while the State paid $343. Hay prices were $43 more for the County, and the state was paying $101, compared to Juniata's $144. The County paid out $20 less for other feed costs ($155) and the State paid $175. Pasture cost the County $31 while the State averaged $22. Totaling the feed cost figures, the County paid $43 dollars more for feed per cow then the State averaged. Said another way, the County's feed cost per hundred weight of milk was $.13 higher at $4.56 compared to the State average of $4.43 per hundred weight of milk produced.

Chief testing supervisor was Harvey Fettig assisted by C. George Book, Mifflintown and Michael Beaver, Port Royal.

Newly elected officers of the Association are President-Donald Apple, Richfield; Vice-President-Norman Love, East Waterford; Secretary-C. Roy Henry, Port Royal; Treasurer-Harvey Fettig, Port Royal.

A Brandywine Christmas takes you back in time

By JOAN LIESAU

CHADDS FORD – A Brandywine Christmas is now being presented to the public at the Brandywine River Museum at Chadds Ford. Enticing the visitor are three seasonal exhibitions from days of past.

On exhibit since November 24 are antique dolls from the collection of Ann Wyeth McCoy, 1500 feet of model 0-gauge railroads, and 100 antique toys from the Bernard Barenholtz collection.

Upon entering the Museum, the festive mood is set by four Christmas trees imaginatively decorated by the Museum volunteers with natural ornaments made from materials gathered in the woods and fields along the Brandywine River. One of the trees is decorated with the giant fluffy white Queen Anne's Lace. A tree made completely from pine cones of various sizes and shapes was positioned by the large glass windows of the round Museum, with the Brandywine River flowing beneath. The fourth tree was covered with dozens of intricately formed figures, each one different. The figures were made from nut shells, seeds, seed pods, cornhusks, weeds and grains. Thistle imaginatively became mice, walnuts took the form of turkeys and acorns and pods mysteriously became a man paddling his canoe.

Ann Wyeth McCoy and her husband John, created new visual lights for their exhibition the "Magic Land of Dolls" from Mrs. McCoy's outstanding collection. The doll's Christmas tree is an annual favorite at the Museum. Children crowded around to see their small sized friends. The main attraction is a Winter scene of dolls congregated at a New England Church.

Mrs. McCoy has been collecting dolls for as long as she can remember, "I have this feeling about them" she said. "It's all wrapped up in my life. They're fun to look at. I know each doll because I've had all of them so long."

The toys our grandparents loved to play with may be seen in a special exhibition of over 100 American hand and machine made toys from the distinguished collection of Bernard Barenholtz.

Barnholtz began his collection of toys in 1956 when he bought his wife an antique toy milk wagon. His wife began doing research on the toy and found that it was made by James Fallows of Philadelphia around 1870. They soon began adding on other pieces. The Barenholtz collection is now regarded as one of the great collections of 19th century toys in America.

The collection begins with early 19th century toys. At that time, toys were expensive and people created crude wooden playthings for their children from whatever materials were available. The display includes a rocking horse which was straddled by the rider and propelled by pushing their feet along the ground. Also a bentwood rocker, which had smooth elegant lines, and a rocking horse made from a wooden crate. These velocipedes are believed to be the forerunner of the tricycle.

Four Christmas trees are decorated with natural ornaments made from materials gathered in the woods and fields along the Brandywine River. Among the many figures is a canoe, made from a pod, being paddled by a man that is made from an acorn, nuts, and seeds.

Around 1830, through the introduction of inexpensive materials, such as sheet tin, and the advances in manufacturing techniques, toys became affordable for the average family. The first toys were copied from European design, but American manufacturers quickly changed to their own original designs, reflecting the main interest of the day—machinery and transportation.

By 1880, inexpensive clock works became available with emphasis on motion. Horses pranced, dolls walked, boats could sail and trains would run on rails or on the floor.

During the last years of the 19th century, clock work toys were being replaced with the more popular and durable cast iron ones. Although touted by some as being indestructable, it is now difficult to find a complete cast iron toy. Such toys were far to heavy to be run by clock work. Most were mounted on wheels with the child supplying the power of motion.

Pull toys were soon equipped with crank shafts to ring bells, or to operate machinery. The Columbia Side Wheeler, in the current exhibit, has a rotating turret.

Lithograph toys introduced art reproductions into American homes, and also made toys more colorful and realistic. Manufacturers inexpensively made lithograph by taking a picture of a subject and gluing it to a flat or three dimentional wooden block. The block was then ground and the toy was cut out by following the lines of the lithograph. Some of the lithograph toys were animated by attaching

This velocipede rocking horse, part of the Bernard Barenholtz collection, is believed to be one of the forerunners to the tricycle. It is on exhibit at the Brandywine River Museum until January 7.

Tips revealed for quality control in bulk fertilizer blending

By DIETER KRIEG

LAMAR — If a bulk blend fertilizer dealer expects to offer his customers good quality products, he must have efficiently blendable ingredients, appropriate mixing equipment, accurate scales, properly designed hoppers, and trained people. "Any of these factors could affect the quality of the product," says Al Truby, fertilizer quality control manager for Agway, Inc. He made the remarks during a Fertilizer Quality Workshop, held here last week under the sponsorship of PennAg Industries Association. Cooperating in the educational effort were the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Tennessee Valley Authority and The Fertilizer Institute.

The goal of the workshop was to better acquaint Pennsylvania fertilizer dealers with the fundamentals and importance of quality standards. Laws to that effect were toughened earlier this year despite objections from the industry.

According to Homer Kimbrough of the Tennessee Valley Authority, the industry can rid itself of much of the quality problems by simply installing vertical baffles in storage bins. This would avoid serious separation of particles, due to size, shape, and weight. He and others in the industry consider this to be one of the prime problems in quality control. It is especially acute when the material is allowed to cone in any of the holding hoppers or bins.

Kimbrough says that there are three main causes for off-grade blends with fertilizer. They are: 1. incorrect analysis of raw materials, 2. incorrect weights of the materials, 3. segregation of the materials. The latter is caused primarily by the size of the particle but is also influenced by density and shape.

"The greater the mismatch in particle size, the more careful you have to be in blending them," Kimbrough said.

Ed Huber of Agrico agreed. He told the assembled agribusinessmen that the size of the particles making up the blend fertilizer "is most important." Using a series of screens he demonstrated how serious misrepresentation can result if particle size is ignored.

But overcoming that problem isn't easy. The ingredients which bulk fertilizer blenders use to make their products do not come in standard form. They vary from manufactuer to manufacturer and carload to carload. Therein lies the problem.

Fertilizer manufacturers say that it would cost millions of dollars to standardize the industry. On the other hand, they admit that it is a very costly thing to be caught with deficiencies. Pennsylvania's penalties for short analysis fertilizer are the highest in the nation. State law mandates that if a dealer is caught with a short analysis, he is obligated to pay a fine based on ten times the value of the nutrient deficiency, but not to exceed the value of the fertilizer as charged to the customer.

Even the changes in the plant, procedures, and possibly personnel will cost plenty of money. Following is an outline, as presented by Truby, on what fertilizer dealers can do to minimize problems in quality and guaranteed analyses.

APPROPRIATE EQUIPMENT

A well designed fertilizer blending plant is necessary with respect to materials receiving, storage, mixing and loading out finished product, bagged and/or bulk. Some features of a well designed plant are:

(a) bucket elevators, chutes, and conveyor belts for materials handling rather than augers.

(b) suitable material storage bins that prevent contamination of materials.

(c) specially designed holding bins or hoppers to prevent coning and segregation.

(d) accurate scales with easy maintenance.

(e) efficient mixing equipment.

(f) suitable bulk product loadout equipment that prevents coning and segregation. In the case of a bagging operation, specially designed hoppers that feed the bagger are needed.

All of these factors can affect the quality of the final product.

APPROPRIATE MATERIALS

Some factors to consider on material selection are:

(a) availability and cost

(b) chemical analysis

(c) particle size

(d) compatibility with other materials in the formulation chemically and particle size-wise. TVA paper will deal with these specifically.

TRAINED PEOPLE

The benefits from a well trained operator are many, in terms of a quality product. In the final analysis, it is the operator who manages the quality control for his operation. To accomplish this, he needs tools in the way of instruction manuals, proper sampling equipment, and some source of sample analysis.

The three main areas of operation are: 1. Receiving, 2. Blending, 3. Shipping.

RECEIVING - The following check list should be a matter of routine. Before unloading car, check bill of lading against the shipping information and actual numbers on the car. Inspect car for leaks and check appearance of product ordered. There are fairly simple tests available for product identification. Check unloading equipment to be sure it is set to direct the product to the correct bin. Check for spillage when unloading commences, particularly where material being unloaded passes over a bin containing another material.

Sampling incoming materials on a routine basis is a good habit. It is a must if the material is "suspect", chemically or physically. Sampling must be done according to prescribed procedures, using proper equipment, in order for the sample to truly represent the lot sampled. Generally, the stream sampling cup can be used at locations where there is a free falling stream of material such as from a chute or conveyor belt head pulley.

BLENDING - This is a vital part of the quality control program. Formulations should be carefully calculated and rechecked. Actual scale settings should be double checked no matter how familiar the operator is with the operation. Scales need to be cleaned frequently and kept in good working order. They should be checked with known weights on a regular basis.

It is important that material storage bins are clearly and correctly labeled. The operator should not assume a material is in a particular bin because it was there last week. The mixer should be checked frequently for possible build-up. In humid conditions, product can build-up on flights and cause the material to slide rather than to roll and mix properly. The mixing cycle should be predetermined. There are methods available for this procedure that involve sampling and chemical analyses. One method is presented in the TFI bulk blending manual. Again, caution, sampling has to be done correctly. The proper location for sampling to evaluate a mixer performance is one as close to the mixer discharge as possible so that material handling equipment does not distort the sample.

SHIPPING - The shipping operation can undo the job a good blending process has accomplished. This holds true for a bulk or bagged operation. Proper handling of the finished blend is important. Coning in bulk trucks and spreaders should be avoided. This can be done by using movable loading spouts or moving the vehicle at intervals while loading.

Holding hoppers should be specially designed; otherwise, the blended product will be allowed to cone and separate as it is emptied from the hopper. For the bagging operation, the specially designed hopper is a must. The "egg crate" design developed by T.V.A. is an accepted version.

Finally, there is Housekeeping. Throughout each operation in the blending plant good housekeeping is imperitive. It is good business and helps to make a safe business A clean plant is an indicator of a good operation.

In summary, quality control pays off in at least three ways:

(A) It assures you that customers get what they pay for, no more - no less.

(B) It assures you that your business is operating efficiently. Efficiency can increase profits.

(C) It encourages more business through a good quality record.

Fertilizer industry rates No. 1

LAMAR - Pennsylvania's fertilizer industry has the best record in the nation for delivering the exact fertilizer blend ordered by their farmer customers, according to a recent study completed by PennAg Industries Association and released at a Fertilizer Quality Control Seminar held here recently.

Data is based on Pennsylvania government reports of inspections for the period ended June 30, 1977, but not released until the spring of 1978. Similar reports were then obtained from other states and compared.

The only states which equalled the low three per cent deficiency rate achieved in Pennsylvania were Maryland and Wyoming. This result was the culmination of a continuous series of declining deficiency percentages in the Keystone state since 1972. Ironically, it was achieved before amendments to Pennsylvania's fertilizer law increasing penalties were being considered.

Grange meets

RED LION - An open meeting was held during the regular meeting of the Red Lion Grange No. 1781. Forty-five members and five guests were in attendance.

The literary program featured the Master Muppeteers from Calvery Bible Church, Hanover, who entertained with their muppet show relating to Bible Stories and Parables.

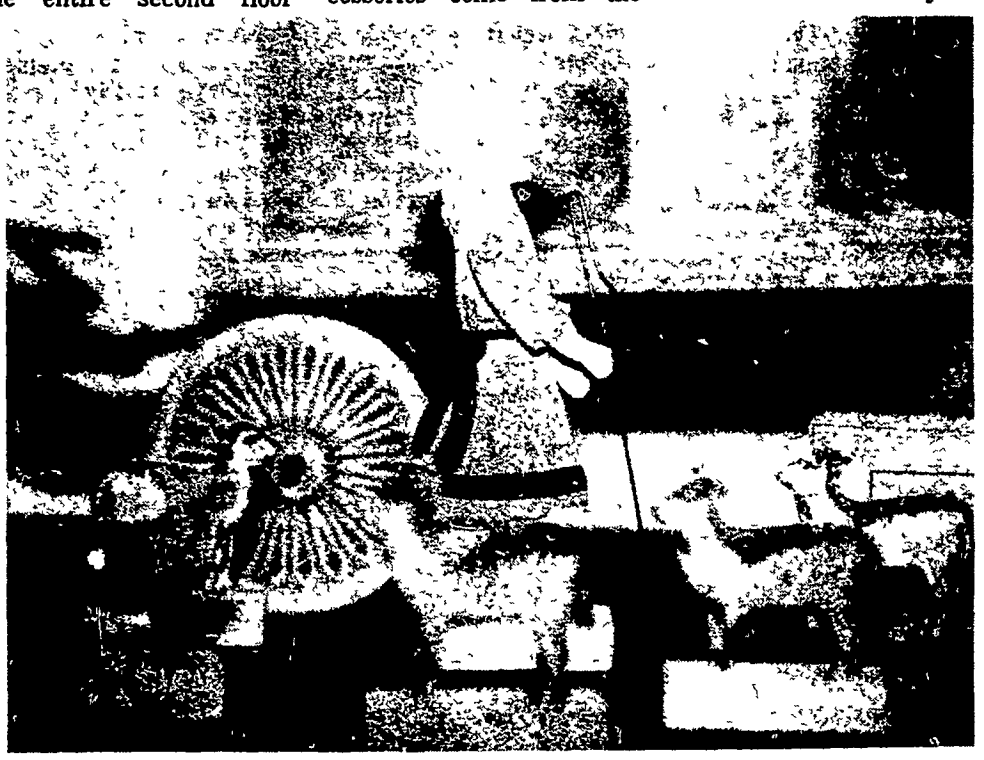
wheels and strings. Others were made into puzzles with cut out parts.

A model 0-gauge railroad consisting of five trains with steam and diesel engines fill the entire second floor gallery with motion and sound as the trains wind their way along 1500 feet of track through mountains and valleys into a huge railroad yard. A lay out of standard gauge toy trains dating from 1929 with original and famous accessories come from the private collection of Nicholas Wyeth.

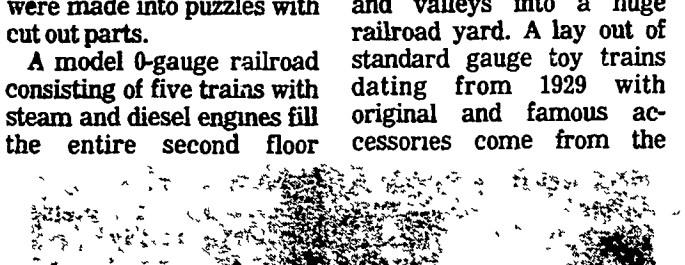
Paintings and drawings exhibited in the first floor gallery trace the history of artistic endeavors in the Brandywine Valley. Works by several landscape artists, Howard Pyle, and many of his students and members of the Wyeth family, represent more than a century of important contributions to American art. The art gallery is a rich tradition which the Museum celebrates throughout the year.

"A Brandywine Christmas" will be on exhibit until January 7, 1979, at the century old grist mill in Chadds Ford. The Museum is open daily, except Christmas, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. There is an admission charge. Starting January 13, Carolyn Wyeth will have her paintings on exhibition.



Lithograph made toys more colorful and realistic. Lithograph pictures were glued onto a wooden block, and then cut out. Lithograph toys were animated by attaching wheels and strings, like this shepherd girl. This collection of lithograph toys is part of the Bernard Barenholtz collection which is on exhibit at the Brandywine River Museum, Chadds Ford.

The doll's Christmas tree is an annual favorite at the Brandywine River Museum in Chadds Ford. Delicate antique dolls from the private collection of Ann Wyeth McCoy are on display in a winter wonderland. She and her artist husband, John, worked together on the scenes.



The game of volleyball was first played in the U.S. in 1895.

Cooperative report

enhancing prices." The Commission noted that such responsibility should be entirely removed from USDA and transferred to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

3. Competition impact statements may be required whenever businesses (including cooperatives) consider major marketing decisions. The Commission's suggestions follow along the line of thoughts introduced by Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts who says that the least anti-competitive alternative should be chosen.

Other recommendations included in the finalized report would seek repeal of anti-trust exemption of the insurance industry contained in the McCarran-Ferguson Act; seek repeal of the Reed-Bulwinkle Act under which the trucking industry has an immunity from anti-trust laws in order to organize rate bureaus; and seek to abolish the antitrust immunity of rail carriers to meet and set freight rates.

Don Graham, a spokesman for the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, headquartered here in the nation's capital, says the Commission's recommendation's are "horrible." Charging that the recommendations would be disasterous to agriculture, if implemented, he says they would wreck the federated cooperative system and grossly reduce marketing efficiency.

Graham, a lawyer who specializes in cooperative law, believes the best way for farmers to make their point is to get in touch with their legislators and exchange opinions. He suggests farmers support congressmen who show an understanding and sympathy for the farm community, whle working to "throw" the others out.

According to USDA statistical information, five out of every six farmers in the country belong to one or more cooperatives. The NCFC represents every commercial farm marketing cooperative.

A spokesman at the headquarters of the National Farmers Union, here, told Lancaster Farming that the National Commission for the Review of Antitrust Laws and Procedures wants USDA out of the cooperative watchdog role because no secretary of agriculture has ever moved against farmer cooperatives. The belief among Commission members is that the FTC would do a better job of rooting out alleged cases of undue price enhancement.

Under present regulations, the U.S. secretary of agriculture is charged with promoting cooperatives and enforcing legal technicalities, both defined and undefined.

A spokesman at the National Milk Prducers Federation points out that there has never been a legislative definition for undue price enhancement and he personally believes it would be next to impossible to establish. "We are very concerned about it," the spokesman affirmed.

"The report is pretty misleading and fairly hostile towards cooperatives," concluded the NFU spkesman. "But I think we have a pretty good chance of defending ourselvs in the Congress," he added. He believes that President Carter would be "hard pressed to go all out with the recommendations."

While many of the nation's farmer cooperatives have had considerable financial and image problems, especially in recent years, the general consensus of the famer cooperative people is that their system should not be locked into place. It's claimed that they need the freedom granted to them by the Capper-Volstead Act if they expect to remain competitive.

BIG FARM POWER AND EQUIPMENT

ALL 4WD TRACTORS ARE NOT CREATED EQUAL

STEIGER DELIVERS MORE OF THE HORSEPOWER YOU PAY FOR.

Steiger's 4WD tractors consistently transfer more engine horsepower to the drawbar — where you need it.

In recent independent tests, Steiger 4WD tractors delivered the highest percentage of engine horsepower to the drawbar pin. By comparing each model's advertised gross engine horsepower to the highest drawbar horsepower attained in the tests, Steiger tractors placed above all others. Steigers delivered an average 84.08% of the engine's power to the drawbar pin. The competition averaged only 75.81%.

Check the horsepower where it counts . . . at the drawbar. Steigers work harder.

Ron Good, Ephrata FFA wins mechanics contest

By JOAN LIESAU

MILLERSVILLE — Ron Good, Stevens R1, was the high placing individual, and a member of the winning Ephrata FFA chapter team on December 19 at the Lancaster County Agricultural FFA Mechanics contest held at the Penn Manor High School, Millersville.

Ron, the son of Shirley and Isaac Good, acquired 189 points out of a possible 240 points. The second placing individual was Ramon Hunt with a score of 180 points. Ramon is a member of the Manor FFA chapter. Third place winner was Harold Kauffman of Reinholds R1. Harold, the son Betty and Harold Kauffman, accumulated 164 points. Gary Martin of Ephrata R4, was the fourth place individual with 157 points. Gary is the son of Arlene and James Martin. John Handel of the Manor FFA chapter came in fifth with 150 points.

The first place FFA team was from the Ephrata chapter and consisted of Ron Good, Gary Martin and Harold Kauffman. They accumulated a total of 510 points from a possible 720. The second place team was from the Manor FFA chapter. The team members, with a total of 470 points, were Ramon Hunt, John McMichael and John Handel.

The agricultural mechanics contest was conducted by Doug Stoner, agriculture instructor at Penn Manor. The contest consisted of three main areas. They were agricultural mechanics skills, which included gas welding and cutting, and tool maintenance; agricultural power and machinery and small engine power, along with, electric power and processing which delt with electric wiring and electric motors.

The contestants took six ten question exams involving small engines power, electrical motors, gas welding and cutting, electricity, agriculture machinery and tool maintenance.

Another segment of the contest involved problem solving. The contestants were also given 15 mechanical parts for identification.

The FFA members were judged on their completeness and accuracy of work (40 points), proper selection of tools (20 points) proper selection of materials (20 points), neatness of operator and work (10 points) and safety procedures (10 points).

The three highest scoring individuals in the state will represent Pennsylvania in the National FFA Agricultural Mechanics contest next Fall. Eliminations will be held at the state convention this Summer.

Christmas hints noted

UNIVERSITY PARK - There's probably not a season nor a time of the year when you can do more to trim waste and try to use your resources than the Christmas holidays, say experts.

Put discarded clothing back into use by giving items no longer used to charity or thrift shops.

If you're getting something for your home to replace a workable but outdated item such as an appliance, consider giving the old item to someone who could use it.

Save Christmas greeting cards to use for decorating next year or cut up to use as gift cards.

Consider sending the same holiday greeting cards back and forth each year among families or friends and convey the seasonal wishes and collect new signatures each year.

Save and use gift wrappings - both paper and bows. If necessary, trim larger pieces into ones for smaller packages.

Cut out illustrations from used gift wrap to use in decorative ways.

To make gifts, melt down old candles and use the wax with paraffin to make new ones. Use small or broken crayons to add color to the candles.

Holiday meeting features feed, finances and fun

By KENDACE BORRY

LANCASTER — Close to 500 people gathered last Thursday at the Landis Valley Inn, Lancaster to hear about feeds, finances, and fun. The event was sponsored by the Penn-Jersey Harvestore Systems Inc., New Holland.

Robert Caister, a Michigan farmer who works 1300 acres, and has had 20 years experience with Harvestore, spoke at the meeting.

He told his audience that tradition doesn't mean as much in Michigan as it seems to in this part of the country.

He stated that today he has 110 cows, and is still working to make his farming operation more efficient.

He told of his start in 1944 when his father bought a farm. The family decided that they didn't like using corn cribs, and were searching for another way to store their crops. After seeing different systems, they bought two Harvestore silos, and had the distinction of having the first two at one place in the "Thumb of Michigan". This was in 1958.

They used the one silo for haylage, then filled both silos for haylage, and built a third silo for corn. By 1961, the fourth silo was built, and finally the fifth one was added with a feedhouse inbetween.

Meanwhile another farm was bought, and the sixth silo was put up on it.

In 1967, a liquid manure system was built on the farm.

Caister told that his cows average 16,676 pounds of milk with 610 pounds of butterfat.

He told the group that he thinks that everyone should make a new year resolution now to decide when they are going to start cutting next year's hay and then keep it. He thought that May-21 is supposed to be a good date, and he said by then every farmer should have his equipment ready to go. Good farming, he stated takes good planning.

And when you cut your hay, he added, don't look back and don't look up. Just keep cutting.

The important thing, he noted, is to get the hay cut, and not to pay attention to the weather. Too much feed value and too many nutrients are lost waiting on the weather.

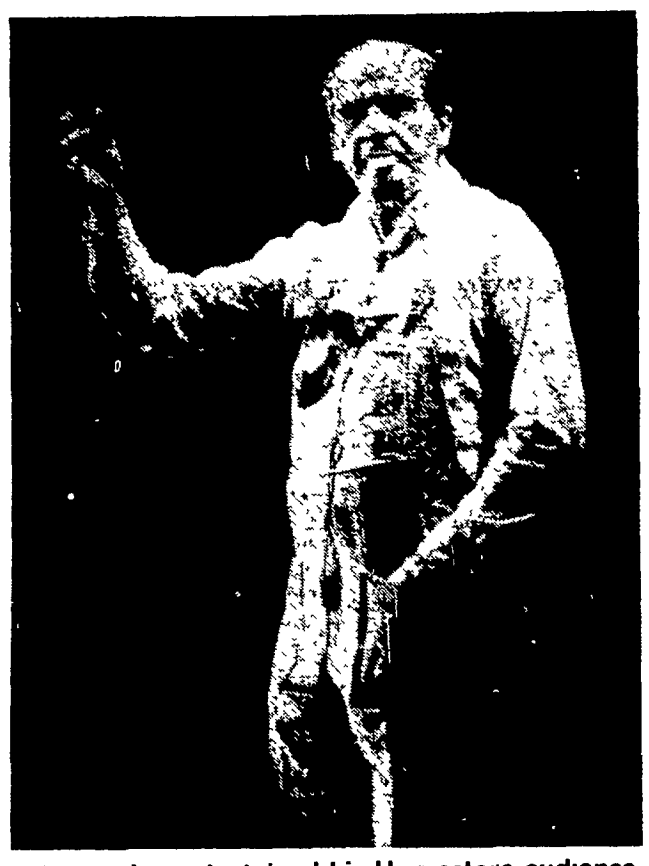
To get four cuttings of alfalfa in, hay management is very important, he stressed. The first cutting is critical and that one week can make the year. If it is done right, he can guarantee a good second cutting.

One thing to remember about hay, he commented, is, he who hesitates is lost.

And, he added, never miss an opportunity, or you'll be left behind in farming.

(Turn to Page 38)

Robert Caister



Cotton Ivy entertained his Harvestore audience with country quips and stories of life in the hill country.

control at W. Atlee Burpee Company in Warminster, we are to expect normal supplies in vegetable seeds at this time. "There is no general shortage at this time. We are all set to go, and packaged for the 1979 season." he said.

The supply of clover is reported to have increased 10 per cent over last year, according to Ken Beachley of Beachley-Hardy Seed Company, Shiremanstown. Clovers, in general, have improved. "Some new and improved varieties may be scarce" he said. Red land clover was reported to be somewhat limited by Rohrer.

Prices reported on forage grasses such as orchard, brom and timothy, are somewhat higher than last year because of a shorter supply, but in general the prices are firm. Timothy will be higher than this Fall, but not as high as last Springs prices. According to Rohrer, "there is and ample supply from our position."

Seed oats and seed corn appear to be in adequate supply. Prices on corn are somewhat higher, but according to Bell, this is "normal inflation."

In agreement, Bell and Beachley both said that if the farmer has a specific hybred in mind, he should buy his seed as early as possible. There will be shortages in specialized varieties they said.

The general consensus of the seedmen at the December 18 meeting was to put your seed orders in as early as possible to ensure that you get your favorite variety of seed.

Christmas trees are useful after the holidays

MEDIA - When the holidays are over experts suggest that you put your Christmas tree to work in your garden. James J. McKeehen Delaware County Extension Agricultural Agent points out that evergreen boughs make a good mulch for perennials and bulbs. January is the ideal time to apply a mulch because the ground is usually frozen by then and the mulch will discourage thawing and freezing. You can also spread straw, hay, or oak leaves over the branches. That discarded Christmas tree may also be useful as a windbreak for your living evergreens. It's not the best method of protection, but it will help because wind and sun can cause the top of your evergreen plants to dry out. Anything that helps break the wind and shades the plant will help. Your tree can also become a bird feeder. Just stand it upright in the lawn or garden and fasten suet and feeders of grain on the tree. The birds will like it because the hardest part of winter is still ahead for them.

Feed grain program announced

NEWARK, Del. – Farmers will be offered higher target prices for their corn, sorghum, and barley in the 1979 feed grain program, according to A. Palmer Corey, chairperson of the Delaware State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

The corn target price will be $2.20, instead of $2.10 a bushel as authorized under the previous program.

The target price for sorghum was increased from $2.28 to $2.30 a bushel, and the barley target price went from $2.25 to $2.40 per bushel.

Corn and sorghum producers will again be offered a 10-percent set-aside and a 10-percent diversion program. There will be a 20-percent set-aside program for barley in 1979, instead of a combination set-aside/diversion program.

Corey says the 1979 program provisions are essentially the same as in 1978, requiring farmers to participate in order to be eligible for the grain reserve, loans, target price, diversion and disaster payments.

For additional details of the feed grain program, contact your local ASCS office.

Eisenbrown elected

SEVEN SPRINGS -- Elmer Eisenbrown was recently elected president of the Pennsylvania Farm and Power Equipment Association. Eisenbrown, of New Brighton, was elected president of the 600 member retail dealers association, during the organization's annual meeting which was held here last month.

A retail farm dealer for over 26 years, he represents White Farm Equipment Company machines. He is a member of the concord United Methodist Church and Sunday School of New Brighton.

Eisenbrown has three children and one grandson. His wife, Grace, works at the dealership as the bookkeeper and parts manager.

His duties as president will involve traveling around the state and attending meetings of the association. He will be calling on dealers to assist them with any problems or services that the association provides.

First vice president, James Straley of Dover, and second vice president, Web Snyder of Watsontown, were also elected.

The main speaker at the convention was Dr. Earl Butz.

Foods have their "ins and outs" of fashion just as clothes do, according to a recent issue of Glamour magazine which states that a very "in" entree is chicken. Chicken is low in calories and fat content but high in protein - right in keeping with today's emphasis on "food for fitness." The National Broiler Council reports that Americans will eat an average of about 45 pounds each of chicken this year. That's about three billion birds.

'Muppeteers' used to convey Christmas message

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

HAMETOWN - The Christmas message has been told in countless times and places and in a variety of ways.

But few Christmas programs could be more endearing than the "Muppeteers," a delightful half-hour program of song and inspirational entertainment created by members of the Calvary Bible Church, Wilson Avenue, Hanover.

Muppets are those almost-human creations, originally designed for use with the children's educational television series, "Sesame Street." They became popular overnight and caught the attention of the nation with their own program, "The Muppets."

Richad and Jean Mould, Hanover, have been fascinated for many years with puppetry. They saw the muppet-puppets as an ideal medium for deepening the understanding and religious faith of the children within the Hanover congregation.

Programs were written and taped with accompanying music, while Richard designed a portable stage of metal and maroon velvet fabric. Muppets kits come through a California company, Puppet Productions.

"The idea of the muppets is to help spread the gospel in a unique and entertaining way, with a moral and a purpose worked in throughout the program," says Richard Mould, referred to by the puppet characters as "The Boss."

Two regular monthly appearances are scheduled on the church's calendar, with additional appearances scattered at other intervals.

Church members assist in staffing the backstage and operating the puppets. Jean Mould serves as a sort of head puppeteer and operates "Virgil," a brilliant-orange lion who is the program emcee and steals the show with his endearing personality.

The Muppets entertained at the annual Christmas family banquet of Society 11 of the York County Farm Women, held at St. Paul Lutheran Church last week.

Assisting the Mould's during the program were Deb Wickline, Beth Meckley and Steve Wildasin.

While the Farm Women appearance was one of the few outside presentations given to date by the Muppets, the group is interested in sharing their muppet-message with church and community organizations. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Moulds at their home or through the Hanover Calvary Bible Church.

Muppet cast members lead the group in the singing of "Silent Night."

PFA discussed land use and legislative policy

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

LANCASTER - While "politics" is considered a hands-off issue with some farmers, many realize that, like it or not, governmental involvement is part of American agriculture today.

Working within the political framework is a foundation of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, the state's largest farm organization.

"Legislation that is good for the farmers is good for the rest of the population," is a philosophy of the PFA, which has gained the support of the General Assembly for 85 per cent of their favored bills in the Senate and 82 per cent in the House.

In an effort to maintain personal contact and the exchange of information with lawmakers, PFA has established legislative action committees at both state and national levels. Legisiative committee members of District 8, which encompasses Dauphin, Lancaster, Lebanon and York counties, met last week at the Dutch Town and Country Restaurant to study goals and implementation of political activity.

Carolyn Rutter, of Dover, the District 8 director, and Chet Heim, PFA's director of public affairs, led the morning legislative study with about 40 committee-workers in attendance.

"This session of the General Assembly promises to be an interesting one; we can't even figure out who the leaders are going to be," noted Heim, commenting on the heated battles that have raged across the state over key elected seats.

Under the constitution of Pennsylvania, any legislation must receive a majority of the votes of all elected House and Senate members to become law, not just a majority of the representatives in attendance at a session. Therefore, to pass any bill, support must be garnered for 102 members of the House and 26 of the Senate.

Because of the changes made in proposed bills as they pass through the branch committees, hearings, debates and amending processes, PFA legislative committeemen were reminded to always use both the bill number and the printers' number, if known, when contacting elected representatives.

A session on land use policy was featured during the afternoon training schedule. PFA legislative specialists expect that agriculture land preservation will be a front-runner issue in the upcoming months of General Assembly sessions. Viewing some type of land use policy as inevitable, PFA is supporting comprehensive land use planning which considers farmland of prime importance, and is geared toward preserving the state's agriculture industry by preserving all classes of farmland.

"We're failing to think long enough ahead in the future on the land use issue," asserted Ralph McGregor, York County dairyman who chaired the land use session. McGregor, of East Berlin, is the district's representative to PFA's state land use committee.

The organization's policy of land use is based on maintaining all agriculture land through voluntary programs, run under local control, with the option of selling development rights on property set aside within established ag-land preserves. Under proposed guidelines, no mass building could ever take place on land on which developmental rights had been sold.

Theoretically, a property owner would have already lost his development potential by enrolling his acreage in an agriculture preserve; and the sales of development rights to local municipalities would compensate him for the loss of future gains on the land's development value.

Developmental rights could also be retained and held for possible later sales as values on comparable development acreage increases. Or, the rights might be sold to a third party, where they could be resold, or held for speculation against future land value increases.

Monies for the purchase of the rights may remain the biggest problem confronting the land use issue. Funds for such purchases might be raised by either property transfer levies, or bond issues. In light of growing taxpayer rebellion, however, money for farmland preservation may discourage any quick legislative solutions.

FmHA loans available for farmers

HARRISBURG – Local county offices of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) now have loans available for low-income farm families, with implementation of the "limited resource" farmer authority of the Agricultural Credit Act of 1978, according to State Agriculture Secretary Kent D. Shelhamer.

The new loan program will provide credit at reduced interest rates to low-income families for real-estate, construction and production expenses, where farm operations and resources are so limited that they cannot afford the regular rates of interest for FmHA loans.

Limited resource borrowers of farm real estate or operating loans will be allowed to defer beginning repayment, if necessary, until three years after receiving their loans.

Shelhamer praised the new loan program, calling it a "potential boost for our young farmers just entering the business, as well as the many others who have been unable to build their farms up to make an adequate living."

Under the limited resource loan program, real estate loans for purchase or improvement of land and buildings will carry a three per cent interest rate for the first three years of repayment and then five per cent the following two years. After the first five years, borrows will pay whatever rate they can afford, not less than five per cent, nor more than the maximum interest rate normally applies to FmHA farm loans (currently 8½ per cent).

Limited resource loans for production expenses will carry a five per cent interest tag during the first two years, with borrowers reaching higher rates up to FmHA maximums as their operations improve. Borrowers' ability to pay higher interest rates will be reassessed every two years after the initial repayment period.

Shelhamer said that the program should open up a new means of finance to farmers who could not previously quality for other farm credit. More information is available through local FmFH offices.

"We anticipate filling the structure with many feeds as we grow them on our farm. Alfalfa haylage - wheatlage - rye - corn silage - high moisture ground ear corn.

"Due to the economy and versatility of the Sealstor, our family selected this structure. This is the way we will be assured of top quality roughage and grain for our 600 steers."

prices of everything are skyrocketing every few months just like the taxes, but for the farmer, he has nothing to say. He takes the price of milk, and like it or not, he has to keep cool and pay his bills on time or else there will be a service charge after 30 days.

For next year, our accountant said that Social Security on the workers is going up. I would like to see some of the people from Washington, D.C. come and see the farmer work and sweat. I have a nephew who lives and works in Greece and there the government helps you get started to farm. Also, the doctor and baby speciliast come to the house to treat the children; but not in this country. And in other countries they have a health policy on the people and a social security plan that they make a comfortable living after the age of 62 and they don't worry like our American people do. It seems that our government helps the foreigners sooner than the American people who have to pay taxes and income tax. These foreign people get away with income tax, they could save their money. I remember my deceased mother telling us that when they came from Poland years back that if you didn't have a nickel you didn't even get a cup of coffee on the ship when you arrived in New York City. Our farm is a historical place and it is run by the third generation.

Thank you very much. Have a merry Christmas and a happy, prosperous New Year.

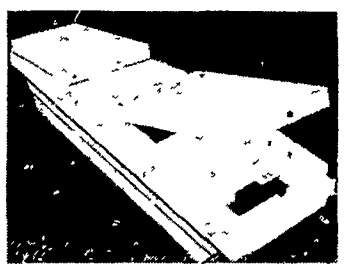
Are you a Keystone Farmer?

Members of FFA chapters in souheastern and southcentral Pennsylvania who will receive their Keystone Degree at the Farm Show next week are reminded to send their pictures and biographical information to Lancaster Farming, Box 366, Lititz, Pa. 17543. As in previous years, this newspaper will devote a special section of pages to those FFA'ers who have earned the State honor.

Some 70 high schools in the region received invitations in early December to join this program. Students and their instructors are reminded that the deadline for submitting the above material is December 30. Early contributions are very much appreciated.

WHAT'S NEW



PICK-UP TRUCK TOOL BOX

Tempo Products Company announces its new Marlex Plastic Utility/Tool Box for pick-up trucks. The new Model TTB-II is the second generation of Tempo's production, with several improvements over the unit introduced originally in 1975 which proved itself capable of tough, "work-horse" usage, says the manufacturer.

The Tempo cross-over tool box will not rust or corrode. It is resistant to most oils, chemicals, fertilizers, solvents, salts and paints claims the manufacturer. Bouncing tools create little noise and do not damage as easily. The Tempo unit is made of Marlex, high impact, high density polyethylene.

The tool box body is thicker than 10 gauge steel with two spring loaded lids that are thicker than 8 gauge steel. Still, the box weighs only 40 pounds, the manufacturer says. It is 17 inches high, 18½ inches wide and 70 inches long suitable for mounting in standard wide-bed pick-ups, with a recommended maximum load of 250 pounds. The box also has leather grain finish with color molded in.

Holiday Meeting

Among the other speakers at the meeting was Dick Dennison, manager F.M.B.A. and P.F.A. Services, who spoke on taxes and investments.

Dennison told that farmers should delay the sale of grain and livestock until after January 1 if they needed help in their income tax management, having had a very favorable year in 1978. Other items that can be done to help such a situation include having feed, fertilizer, and crop supplies delivered now, purchasing new equipment, and claiming the depreciation of equipment. The itemization of personal deductions was also advised.

Entertainment for the dinner was provided by Cotton Ivy, a farmer, county agent, and saleman, who has been billed as the "new Will Rogers". The country-styled comedian, who is up for a Grammy award in the country-weestern division, was making his first appearance in the East.

Garbed in bright orange overalls, he told his jokes in a hillbilly accent, speaking of life on the farm and in the hills.

The meeting was attended by farmers from Montgomery, Chester, Dauphin, Lancaster, and Lebanon Counties, as well as the surrounding area.

Reuben writes nutrition book

NEW YORK — Dr. David Reuben, who wrote the best-selling, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex - But Were Afraid to Ask," has written a book on nutrition in which he calls most anti-cholesterol propaganda "sheer nonsense."

His new book, "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Nutrition," explores many nutrition myths including the cholesterol issue. Dr. Reuben says if you want to stay healthy you better eat cholesterol. He recommends a diet of whole milk, butter, all the eggs you want, and nutritious foods regardless of their fat content.

Carol Mundis, leathercraft; James Roth, candlemaking; Vicki Rauhauser, crocheting; Shane Seidenstricker, photography; Darren Smallwood, pets; Dorene Smallwood, foods; Roy Thompson, field crops; and Joey Welsh, petroleum power.

Special recognition was given to outstanding club members for 1978. They are state and national winners, Tom Welsh, dairy; and Bonnie Wire, photography; state winner in Achievement, Jonathan Myers; and Keystone Winners, Joey Welsh and Roy Thompson.

The installation of new officers was held.

A slide presentation was given by Joanne Haskins, who took a 4-H trip to Colorado last Summer.

The co-chairman of the 4-H cookie sales, Nancy Eisenhart and Brenda Wetzel, gave prizes to the top three salesmen of the Thomasville Club; Carol Haskins, Mike Welsh, and Ronald Horn.

The national poster contest participants were recognized. They were Michelle Lehigh, Joanne Haskins, and Mike Welsh.

Christmas universal holiday

Carol Brubaker, on the left, Dennis Baker, in the center, portraying Hultomten (Santa), and his mother Mary Baker, were part of the Swedish Christmas. Mary holds the marzipan, pig shaped candy, which is the prize for the person who finds an almond in a rice dish.

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

"God Jul," "Feliz Navidad," "Froehliche Weinachten,' "Weselych Swiat" Christmas greetings from the lands of Sweden, Mexico, Germany and Poland. These four countries and their Christmas traditions were depicted by the Conestoga United Methodist Church for the public earlier this month.

While these countries were the focal point of the weekend display, the congregation under the efforts of Ronald Waltman presented ten additional window displays of the holiday season as it is celebrated in Great Britian, Norway, Peru, Austria, Finland, Switzerland, Denmark, Brazil, Japan and France.

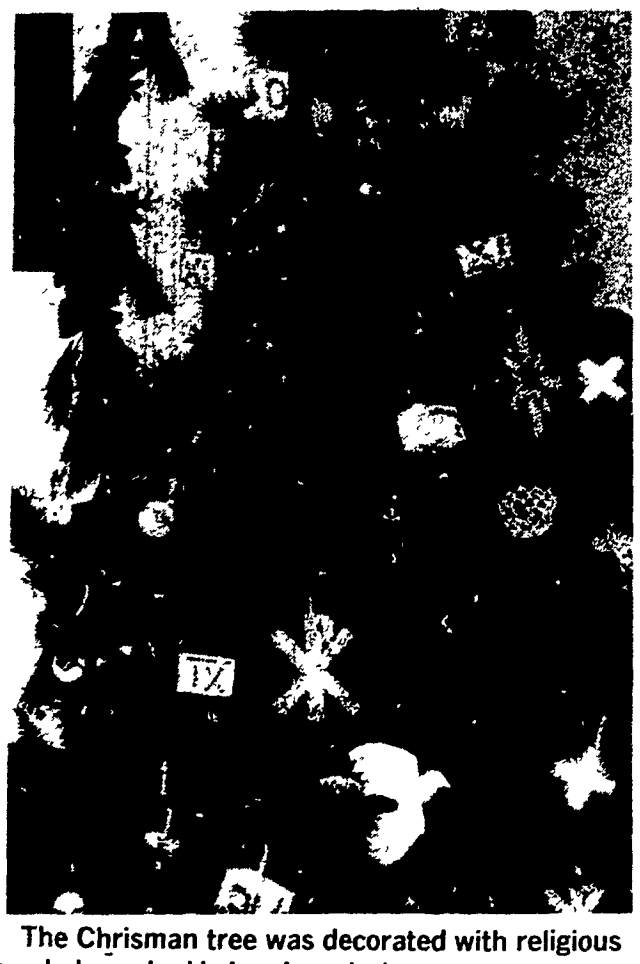
During the guided tour throughout the church, visitors beheld in music, sight, taste and oral explanations given by costumed parish members the many traditions and foods typical of the holidays around the world.

Putting special emphasis upon the traditions of other countries which eventually became a part of the American Christmas celebrations added extra insight into U.S. customs. Universally shared festivities are decorating a tree, presenting gifts and having an imaginary figure who rewarded or punished children according to their behavior.

"Papa Noel,", "Pere Noel," "St. Nicholaus," "Hoterosho," "Jultomten," or "Father Christmas" symbolize to the children across the face of the earth the encouragement of good over evil.

Denise Martin holds a wafer called "Oplatek and a dish of Polish honey kisses. The tree with th moon-shaped decorations in the background is traditional part of the myth of a character banishe to the moon.

Homestead Notes



The Chrisman tree was decorated with religious symbols worked in beads and wire.

The birth of the savior, the inn, the wise men, the star of Bethlehem, reading of the scriptures and many festive meals also make up a substantial part of the celebrations in many countries.

Individual room displays of Mexico, Poland, Germany and Sweden were filled with traditionally decorated trees, foods, costumed guides and respresentatives gifts of each country. Samples of cookies as well as the recipes for the foods were shared with visitors.

"Feliz Navidad." Season's greetings from Mexico. For the Mexicans, Christmas is a joyous time complete with fireworks, plenty of good food, feasts, dancing and singing. They celebrate over a period of nine days the "Posadas" which means "inn." On the evening of December 16 , the celebration begins. On the final night of the Posadas an altar is set up representing the Nativity scene. When the figures of Mary and Joseph are finally positioned within the display, everyone sings, joyful that they have found a place to rest. After the song, a prayer is said; then all enter another room to share in a party.

Central to the children's celebration is the pinata. It is an earthenware jug decorated to look like a face or an animal and filled with fruits, candy, nuts and good luck charms.

A special cookie which is part of the Mexican holiday is the spicy orange thin.

1 cup soft butter
1½ cups sugar
grated rind of one orange
1 egg
¼ cup orange juice
¾ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Betsy Bomberger holds the sesame seed cook in the bowl, a part of the Japanese Christmas.

½ teaspoon chrushed cardamon seed
½ cup nuts ground fine

Cream butter, add sugar, orange juice rind and egg. Beat until light. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Roll very thin. Cut with floured cutters. Bake in 425 degree F. oven for six to eight minutes. Makes 10 dozen.

Traditions shared or taken from Mexican traditions by Americans include chocolates, pointsettias and a turkey dinner.

"Weselych Swiat." Greetings from Poland. According to researchers who formulated the information presented in this particular display, St. Sylvester Eve, December 31 is traditionally the time when everyone can do what he wishes regardless of his station in life. Although Poland is now a Communist country and no longer officially recognizes the religious celebration called Christmas, many Poles still recall and keep traditions of the religious holiday in their homes.

The Star of Bethlehem is their most significant symbol. The first star to appear on Christmas Eve heralds the end of the Advent fast. A festive Christmas Eve supper is the focal point of the Polish celebration. According to tradition, there must always be an odd number of dishes. However, the number of people partaking of the meal must be even or paired. Places are always set for absent members of the family and there is always a place for unexpected guests and one extra place of the absent Jesus.

Following the meal, the Star-man, a more religious version of Santa Claus (usually the village priest in disguise) appears to give gifts to good children and scold bad ones. Good children have to recite the Catechism to obtain a gift.

Polish meal is a meatless one in which a holy wafer called the "Oplatek" is broken and shared. A wheat pudding symbolizing harvest, honey, salt and bread signifying best wishes, good health and good luck are an integral part of the Christmas Eve feast in Poland. The Honey Kisses are traditional Polish sweets.

Polish Honey Kisses

1 cup sugar
½ cup butter
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon ginger
1 cup honey
2 tablespoons milk
3 and ½ cups flour
powdered sugar frosting
¼ teaspoon nutmeg

Cream butter, sugar, lemon peel and spices. Stir in milk. Stir in flour gradually. Roll dough to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut into fancy shapes with cutters. Bake at 350 degrees F. for eight to 10 minutes. Cool and frost with the following frosting:

¼ cup milk
2 cups confectioners' sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
dash of salt

"Froeliche Weinachten." Greetings from Germany. On the evening of December 5, the German children leave their shoes or stockings before the door or at the hearth. St. Nicholaus will fill their footwear with goodies. If the children have been bad, St. Nicholaus's helper, Ruprecht, leaves a switch which the parents use on the offending child.

Four weeks from Christmas Day the first candle in the Advent wreath is lit in the home. Each week an additional candle is lit until Christmas arrives.

Especially important to the German Christmas celebration according to the presentation given during this display is the manger scene or "krippe." Either the scene is made lovingly by hand by family members or purchased at great expense from a talented wood carver. Additional decorative touches to the German holiday homestead are branches of greens, candles, angels, stars and gingerbread houses.

On Christmas Eve the entire family goes to church. After worship, later that night, the Christ Child brings gifts and decorates a tree which is not put up until Christmas Eve.

The final celebration of the German Christmas season is January 6 when the Three Wise Men go from door to door collecting money. This money is then distributed among the poor.

The Christmas tree, tradition explains, stems from Martin Luther's having brought a tree into his home one Christmas Eve to show his wife and children the beauty of the Christ Child's Birthday. Attempting to depict the natural beauty of the dark night, Luther used candles to represent the stars.

Candles are also put in the windows of the homes to guide the angels through the darkness to their homes where they may come in and eat. Food is left out on the tables for them. One particular treat set for the angels and family as well is the German Spritz.

German Spritz:

2¼ cups sifted flour
¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon baking powder few grains of salt
1 cup butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 egg

Sift dry ingredients together and cut in butter with pastry blender. Break egg into measuring cup. If it does not measure ¼ cup add water to make ¼ cup. Add with first mixture and vanilla. Beat well. Fill cookie press half way. Using crown design, press onto chilled cookie sheet. Decorate with red or green candied cherries. Refill cookie press using star design and make more. Bake 400 degrees F. for 10 minutes. Remove from sheet at once and cool on wire rack. Makes five dozen.

"God Jul." Greetings from Sweden. Christmas lasts a month in Sweden beginning December 13 with the feast of St. Luica and ending January 13. On St. Lucia Day, the eldest daughter, according to custom, wakes early and dresses in a white robe, wearing a crown of seven lighted candles surrounded by greenery. She serves the family coffee, saffron buns and Christmas cookies while they are still in bed.

She represents the queen of lights and portrays the coming of longer days of daylight to the northern country.

On Christmas Eve, at midnight, the Swedes have their midnight Smorgasbord, when a huge table of food is prepared. Fish, meatballs, breads, rice porridge, saffron buns, ginger cookies, almond cookies, jellies, ham, brown beans and relishes are included in the traditional meal. One almond is hidden in the rice porridge. Whoever finds it in his dish receives a Marzipan candy shaped in the form of a pig.

Gifts are distributed by Jultomten as he arrives riding his goat called Jullirock. The family sets food out for Jultomten and they tie bundles of grain on the trees for the birds so they will also have food.

Marzipan

1 can (8 ounce) almond paste
2 tablespoons beaten egg whites
1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar

In a medium-sized bowl, break up almond paste with a fork. Add egg white and work paste with a fork well. Knead in the sugar until the mixture is stiff enough to form into desired shapes. Marzipan may be used to stuff dried apricots, figs and dates or it may be rolled into candies.

"Meri Kurisumasu." Greetings from Japan. Since less then one per cent of the population of Japan is Christian, Christmas is not observed as extensively as in predominantly Christian nations. The secular aspects of Christmas are widely observed however because the people are fond of festive celebrations Stores in cities especially proclaim the commercial aspects of secular traditions of Christmas.

The theme of peace on earth is also compatible to Buddhist and Shintu teachings Heterosho, an old Japanese God, is interpreted as Santa Claus. He checks the behavior of the children without the aid of a helper since he is endowed with eyes in the back of his head as well as in front. He sees all.!

A popular Japanese cookie is a sesame seed confection.

Sesame Seed Cookies

¾ cup sugar
½ cup butter
1 egg
½ cup sesame seeds
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
tasted sesame seeds

In a large bowl, cream butter and sugar. Beat in egg and add sesame seeds. Stir together flour, baking powder and ½ tsp. salt. Stir into creamed mixture. Shape into eight inch by two inch logs. Wrap dough in waxed paper and chill until firm, for at least two hours. Cut into ¼ inch slices and bake on ungreased cookie sheet at 350 degrees F. for 12 to 15 minutes. If desired, press toasted seeds into top before baking. Makes 32 cookies.

To celebrate the holiday season, the Conestoga United Methodist Church began work on this extensive project in September. The Church presented to the community the traiditons of songs, costumes, foods and telling of customs of Christmas around the world. Whether stated "Feliz Navidad" or "Meri Kurisumasu" the message is the same – "Merry Christmas."

Toddler topics available

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN - An infant's first teachers are his parents. The early months and years are filled with new experiences. His school, in his crib, the floor or anywhere else that he spends most of his time. His instructional materials are familiar things like soap, toys, spoons, or cups. Time for learning is almost any time.

Sometimes parents wonder if their child is developing according to his age level. They compare him to an older brother or sister or the child next door. Of course, all children develop at a different rate, but there are a number of basic guidelines to help determine if one's child is within the expected range of development for his age.

One can find out more about these guidelines and also gain some new ideas about raising his preschooler by subscribint to "Toddler Topics" being offered at no charge by the Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Service of Penn State. These readable practical learning packets will be sent to the home at no charge by merely asking for "Toddler Topics," at the Extension Service–717-385-3431–or by writing to Mrs. Kathy J. Buggy, c/o "Toddler Topics," P.O. Box 250, Schuylkill Haven, Pa. 17972.

Persons who have been on the mailing list in past years will receive Toddler Topics automatically.

Interested individuals and groups are urged to take advantage of this free service.

Americans eating more chicken

COLUMBIA, S.C. - It is estimated that the average American will consume about 45 pounds of broiler-fryer chicken this year. And, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's "Outlook '79" Conference held recently, that amount is likely to increase 8 to 10 per cent during the coming year.

One reason is, consumers are turning to chicken to help fight inflation in their food purchases. While beef and pork prices have gone up (this trend is predicted to continue in 1979), chicken has remained a thrifty buy and poultry experts at the conference forecast that broiler prices next year will likely average near the 1978 level.

The National Broiler Council notes that chicken has a nutritional advantage over red meats, too. It is lower in fat content and cholesterol and has fewer calories per serving than either beef or pork.

Nutritionists are urging Americans to be more selective in the foods they eat. They note that a person's diet is important to all-round well-being.

There's more to turkey than a holiday dinner

That delicious turkey taht is going to provide the feast for the Christmas meal still has a lot of uses when it reaches the leftover stage. Instead of wearing out one's tastebuds with simple cold turkey sandwiches, there are many uses that that turkey can serve.

Several tasty recipes that have been sent in by readers are seen below and should give you a wide variety to choose from in using that leftover Christmas bird. There is also a recipe for turkey with a special stuffing included.

Also, according to the Penn State Extension Service, the leftover turkey meat can be frozen to be used in dishes later on.

Tasty casseroles can be prepared by combining turkey cubes with vegetables, sauce, seasonings, cooked spaghetti, macaroni, noodles, or converted rice. Regular rice and potatoes can become mushy after freezing so one may not want to include them in making planned-over turkey dinners.

If preparing a casserole, the report notes, one should cool it quickly and place it in a meal-sized freezer container or a casserole dish. It should be covered tightly with a moisture-vapor resistant wrap and frozen immediately.

If the family prefers such items as turkey sandwiches and creamed turkey dishes, a person can freeze the leftovers in slices and small pieces. If possible, the slices and pieces should be covered with broth or gravy to prevent contact with the air. This will also lengthen the storage life. One can package in air-tight mealsize containers and freeze them quickly.

Frozen turkey will not improve with age, and it won't retain good eating quality as long as some other meats. So, if one plans to freeze turkey, they should remember that slices and pieces will usually last one month, slices and pieces covered with gravy will be good for six months, and turkey casserole dishes will last for six months.

TURKEY CREAM PIE

pastry for an 8 inch two crust pie
2 cups cold stuffing
2 cups turkey gravy
2 cups cup-up turkey

Heat oven to 425 Degrees F. (hot). Roll pastry one inch larger than the top of the two quart baking dish and put in dish. Next put stuffing in the baking dish. Heat gravy and meat together, then pour over stuffing. Cover with top pastry. Fold under; flute around inside edge. Cut slits in the center. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes. Makes six to eight servings.

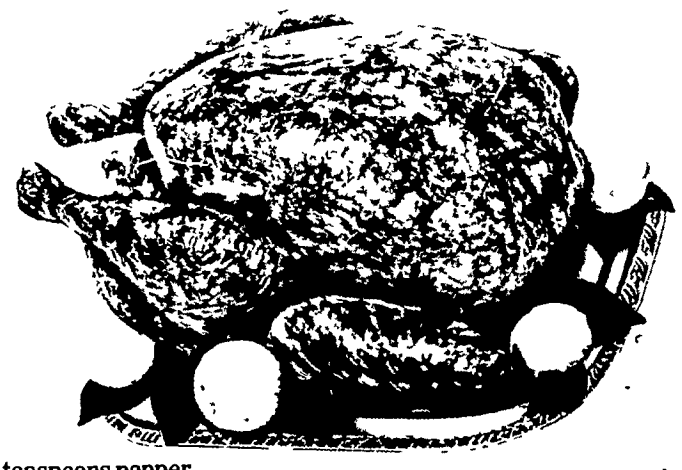
TURKEY BAKE

4 five ounce cups of cooked turkey
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1 cup mayonnaise
1 cup celery
¾ cup herbed stuffing

Combine all the ingredients. Sprinkle with the herbed stuffing. Bake for ½ hour at 350 Degrees F. Serve warm.

TURKEY WITH FRUIT AND SAUSAGE STUFFING

1 12 pound turkey
1 tablespoon salt



2 teaspoons pepper
½ cup dry white wine or white vermouth
¼ cup butter, melted

Fruit and sausage stuffing

1 pound sausage meat
½ cup butter
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped celery
2 quarts bread cubes
2 cups cut-up mixed dried fruits
1 teaspoon marjoram
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon sage

Remove giblets from turkey. Rub turkey inside and out with salt and pepper and sprinkle cavity with about three tablesppoins of the wine. Fill the body cavity loosely with stuffing; do not pack it tightly. Sew or skewer the opening and truss the legs and wings against the body. Put the turkey on a rack in a roasting pan and brush with melted butter. Roast in a preheated 325 Degree oven for about four hours, basting occasionally with pan drippings and with the remaining wine. The turkey is done when the leg joint moves easily and when a meat thermometer inserted in the center of the stuffing registers 165 Degrees F. Remove from the oven and let rest, tented with foil, in a warm place for 15 minutes before carving.

To make the specialfruit and sausage stuffing, first brown the sausage meat in a large skillet, stirring with a fork. Remove the meat to a large bowl, pouring off the fat. Add the butter, onion and celery to the skillet and cook over medium heat, stirring for about five minutes. Add the bread cubes, turning them to brown. Add the mixture to the sausage in the bowl. Then add the remaining ingredients and toss until it is well mixed. Adjust the seasonings to individual tastes. Be sure to cool the stuffing before using it to stuff the turkey. This stuffing recipe makes enough to stuff a twelve pound turkey.

TURKEY CASSEROLE

4 or 5 slices of soft bread torn into small pieces
3 cups cut up cooked turkey
1 cup turkey broth
1 cup milk
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, drained and sliced
2 eggs, beaten
¼ cup chopped pimento
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Mix all ingredients together, pour into an ungreased baking dish, 11½ x 7½ x 1½ inches. Place the baking dish in a pan of hot water, one inch deep. Bake uncovered for about one to 1¼ hours or until a knife inserted comes out clean. Bake in a 350 Degree F. preheated oven. Cut into squares to serve. Note· the broth can be made by dissolving one chicken bouillon cube in one cup boiling water, or use canned chicken broth if turkey broth is not available.

Mrs. Nancy Baumgardner
Emmitsburg, Md.

TURKETTI

1¼ cups spaghetti pieces
2 cups turkey, in one inch chunks
½ cup diced, cooked ham
¼ cup minced pimento
¼ cup minced green pepper
1 can undiluted cream of mushroom soup
½ cup turkey broth
1/8 teaspoon celery salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
one small grated onion
1½ cup grated cheese

Cook the spaghetti until it is barely tender, drain, and rinse with hot water, drain well Add the rest of the ingredients except the cheese. Toss lightly, then add more seasoning if desired. Pour into a 1½ quart casserole. Sprinkle the top of the casserole with cheese. Refrigerate. About one hour before serving, heat the oven to 350 Degrees F. Bake the casserole, covered, for 45 minutes, or until hot. Makes four servings.

TURKEY AND PEAS

1 package of frozen peas
¼ cup butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups milk
¾ cup grated cheese
2 cups of small pieces of turkey

Cook the peas as directed on the package. In a saucepan, melt the butter, then stir in the flour, salt, pepper, and mustard. Slowly add the milk to the mixture, stirring constantly, until the mixture is thickened. Next, add the cheese, stir until it is melted. Add the turkey, peas, and heat. Cook until hot. Serves four to six.

TURKEY HASH

2 cups of cut-up leftover turkey
4 peeled medium sized potatoes
½ green pepper
1 onion
¼ cup diced pimento
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons butter

Put the turkey, potatoes, pepper, and onion through a food chopper. Then mix in the pimento, salt, and pepper. In a large skillet, melt the butter. Pour in the hash mixture, cook over low heat, covered for 15 minutes, or until the potatoes are cooked and the hash is browned on the bottom. Uncover, let stand for a few minutes. Serve with chili sauce. Makes four servings.

HOMEMADE TURKEY SOUP

bones, meat, and neck from a roast urkey
3 quarts water
2 celery stalks and leaves
2 onions, peeeled
2 carrots, whole
2 parsnips, whole few parsley sprigs
salt and pepper to taste

Put the leftover bones, meat, and neck form a roast turkey in a large pot and add the remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer for two hours. Strain soup. Add rice or noodles to the strained soup and cook for ten minutes. Pick out any meat from the bones and add to the soup also. Makes two or ½ quarts. The vegetables which were used in the soup are good for eating also.

Fresh killed turkeys need extra care

NEWARK, Del. - If one is planning to roast a fresh-killed turkey for Christmas instead of one that's been frozen, they should be sure it has not been stored too long before cooking. Otherwise the guests could wind up with food poisoning.

Like all poultry, fresh turkeys can be safely held in the coldest part of the refrigerator (at least 40 degrees F.) for only one to two days after slaughter.

Before Thanksgiving, Delaware Extension home economist Sue Schaefer received reports of fresh-killed turkeys being delivered to customers several days ahead of time - even a week. If left uncooked until Thanksgiving Day, these turkeys would no longer have been safe to eat, she said.

Ms. Schaefer cautions homemakers ordering fresh-killed turkeys for Christmas to be sure the birds were slaughtered no more than two days before Christmas, perferably the day before, and to buy from a reliable source.

Before cooking, one should wash the turkey thoroughly inside and out, and smell it carefully for any sign of off-odors. If it smells or has a slimy feel, one shouldn't serve it.

Turkeys should be roasted to a temperature of between 180 and 185 degrees F. when the meat thermometer is inserted in the center of the inner thigh. To be thoroughly cooked, the dressing temperature should reach 165 degrees F.

After the Christmas dinner, one should remove the remaining dressing from the body cavity of the bird and refrigerate it separately.

Lebanon Co. Society 4

A visit to the E.C.C. Retirement Village, Myerstown, to give gifts to a member and an adopted woman, was on the evening agenda of the Lebanon County Farm Women Society during their December 14 meeting.

After the visit, the Society met at the home of Carol Burkhart for their meeting.

The President had tickets for the State Convention. Plans were made to go caroling at the homes of shut-in members. A Christmas bazaar was held after the meeting.

Beulah Risser will host the January 11 meeting in her home. Changes for next years program will be discussed.

Dear Santa,

It seems like the creatures of the barnyard have gathered together their Christmas lists and asked me to write to you. While I realize that you have most of the presents picked out, please don't ignore these last minute requests.

First off, the horses request some carrots and apples. That's fine by me, except for Dollar. If your're going to bring that overeager-for-feed horse anything, please make sure that it is dietetic. And please speak to him about the ingenious ways he devises to steal the other horses' hay. I know that Dollar tries to be a good horse, but, well, then there was the time he grabbed my hat in his mouth, and took off with it too. I think a lecture from you would do him a world of good.

Now the four woolie lambs that are out in the barn, and being kept for show, well, they would each like to have their very own show blanket. And furthermore, each one wants one a different color. So that means a blue one, green one, a red one, and a gold one. They've been very good this year, I'm happy to report, except fopr Moped.

What can I say about a sheep named Moped? Could you please take a moment to explain to Moped that she is a sheep, and can not rule the entire barnyard? The other sheep are beginning to look at her kind of funny.

The dogs are always happy with the snacks tht you leave them and between that and the leftover turkey that they get on Christmas Day, they manage to waddle into their doghouses. They promised again not to bark this year when you come, although Sam, the hunting dog, asked if he could come out of his doghouse and watch. He mumbled something about keeping up his image as a watchdog.

The cats requested slower mice to catch, warmer Winters, and cream every morning. But they said they'd be happy with pieces of catnip.

All in all, the animals just wanted to tell you that they're always glad to see you and your eight reindeer Their will be hay on the lawn for them and a snack in the house for you

I know that I haven't taken the time to write to you myself this year, so I will just close with a few words

I don't know what to ask for this year, because I already have so much In many ways, this past year has been the best year of my life, and I'm looking forward to the next year even more I am very happy this Christmas, and I guess my one wish is that everyone could share the Christmas spirit throughout the next year

I'll be looking for you Christmas Eve

Love,
Kendy

Farm Women Societies

Women Society 5 attended a Christmas banquet at the Esthers Diner in Fredericksburg recently. A Christmas program was presented by the Society members.

Secret Pal's exchanged gifts. Program books for 1979 were distributed.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Donna Moyer, Annville R2. Special guest speaker will be Karen Jordon. Her topic will be "Communicating with Children."

York Co. Society 7

Avalong Farms was the site of the York County Farm Women Society 7 Christmas party on December 13. Dinner was served to 17 members and 13 guests. The Society was then entertained by a mind reader Don Young "The Esporist."

President Mrs. Robert Emsweiler conducted a short business meeting. Three members will be attending the State Convention. The program committee consisted of Mrs. Ray Hoover, Mrs. Edward Brothers, Mrs. George Spahr, Mary Rohler and Mrs. Charles Gallagher.

Carols were sung and each member and guest received a gift from Santa Claus.

January 10 at 7 p.m. is the date of the next meeting. It will be held in the home of Mrs. Charles Brothers.

York Co. Society 21

On December 27 the York County Farm Women Society 21 will exchange their Secret Pal Christmas gifts.

The Society met in November at the home of Alice Stewart for a Thanksgiving program. Donations were approved for the Mental Health Association and the South Central Lung Association

Society members are asked to note the change of meeting date to December 27, rather than the 20th, at 1:45 p.m.

Berks Co. Society 6

The Berks County Farm Women Society 6 and their husbands attended their annual Christmas party December 8 at Reeser's Restaurant, Reading. The entertainment for the evening was by the "Originals", a barbershop quartet, from Reading.

A short business meeting was held after which gifts were exchanged and the secret pals for 1978 were revealed.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, January 16, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Abraham Keller of Oley.

New family exhibit presented

MEDIA - There will be a new Family Living exhibit and demonstration area when you visit the 1979 Farm Show in Harrisburg, January 8 to 12. This will be the first year when live demonstrations will be held along with a continually operating, simple-to-make food drying unit, points out Maryetta Duffner, Delaware County Extension home economist.

Demonstrations are scheduled on canning tools, checking pressure cooker for accuracy and safety, cutting up fryers, spliting broilers and deboneing chicken breasts. Professionals in each subject matter area will demonstrate these skills and techniques. Instructions on how to make a food drying unit will be available in the same area.

Festive chicken dishes seen in holiday cooking

COLUMBIA, S.C. - It's the most festive - and often the most hectic - time of the year. Parties, shopping, polishing up the house for the holidays. All while the regular family routine goes on as usual.

The National Broiler Council cautions against letting sensible eating habits get lost in the busy Christmas-through New Year's rush. One can include chicken in holiday plans, not only for the family's nutritional benefits but also for serving guests interesting, economical and easy-to-prepare meals.

Chicken provides the complete protein necessary to keep everyone operating at peak efficiency. And its low calorie, low fat content will help off-set the consumption of rich foods which are so much a part of the holiday season.

There was a time when homemakers spent days in the kitchen, cooking up delicious delicacies for end-of-the-year merrymaking. Now, with half of today's women having jobs outside the home, food preparation time is limited.

That doesn't mean a cutback in hospitality, however. Friends drop in and are often invited to "stay for dinner." Almost everyone plans a party, whether a large open house with a lengthy guest list or an informal buffet with a few close friends. Special mealtime treats for the family are also often a part of this season of goodwill.

Versatile chicken fits right in with almost any holiday plans. It's easy to dress it up to fit the occasion, whether spur-of-the-moment suppers or formal, candlelight dinners. There's an added bonus in serving chicken, too: It's easy on the budget, which is usually being stretched to include many seasonal extras.

The National Broiler Council has developed two recipes that are elegant but simple and can be ready to serve in a minimum of time. "Holiday Skillet Chicken" is a delicious combination of chicken with mushroom caps and pearl onions. It takes less than a hour to prepare (50 minutes from start to table) and needs only a green salad and fruit to complete an appetizing meal.

"Stir-Fried Chicken With Walnuts" requires even less time (27 minutes, including preparation and cooking) and is also a special taste treat. It looks pretty, too—a colorful combination of creamy-white chicken and bright green vegetables.

A person can include both of these quick-and-easy chicken dishes in her holiday meal plans.

HOLIDAY SKILLET CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut into serving parts or 8 favorite broiler-fryer chicken parts
3 tablespoons butter
5 teaspoons lemon juice, divided
32 small pearl onions
32 small fresh mushroom caps
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper

Heat three tablespoons butter and two teaspoons lemon juice in large skillet over medium high heat. Brown chicken parts on one side for about 10 minutes. While chicken is browning, peel and wash onions. Turn chicken and add onions. Saute for 10 minutes more, browning other side of chicken. Add remaining lemon juice, reduce heat to low, cover and cook for 10 minutes more. Clean mushroom caps for cooking

Pretty enough for a party but easy to prepare, "Holiday Skillet Chicken" is ready to serve in less than an hour.

FOOD SAFETY CRITICAL DURING HOLIDAYS

Food bacteria never take a holiday. In fact, they're just as busy during the Christmas holidays as they are on the 4th of July. Christmas is a time for cooking special foods, entertaining guests and changing from the everyday routine. Don't let this carefree atmosphere trick you into forgetting food safety precautions.

After you finish your holiday food shopping, rush your food home where you can put it in the refrigerator or freezer. Don't let the groceries sit in a warm car while you run other errands. Remember to keep hot foods hot--above 140 degrees Fahrenheit--and cold foods cold--below 40 degrees Fahrenheit--to prevent bacteria growth.

Wash your hands with soap and hot water before handling any foods. After handling raw meat, fish, poultry or eggs, wash hands, utensils and flat surface with soap and hot water before working with other foods. Remove stubborn bacteria from a cutting board by scrubbing it with soap, rinsing it in hot water and then applying chlorine bleach.

Roasting a turkey for Christmas? Cook it completely to an internal temperature of 185 degrees Fahrenheit. Never partially cook a turkey because you plan to finish cooking it later. Bacteria can survive in partially-cooked poultry and "staph" bacteria may produce toxins.

Remember to cook the turkey stuffing thoroughly, too. If you plan to stuff the turkey, cook it until a thermometer inserted into the stuffing reaches at least 165 degrees Fahrenheit. Bacteria grow rapidly in lukewarm stuffing

Cool leftovers quickly and put them in the refrigerator. Don't hold any broth or gravy more than a day or two. To serve again, reheat and boil for several minutes before serving--then serve it hot.

Refrigerate cream, custard, meringue pies and other foods with custard fillings. It is dangerous to let foods of this kind stand at room temperature.

Freeze foods promptly. Don't let huge quantities of party leftovers fill your refrigerator for days. Plan in advance for ways that you can use the foods. Then freeze the rest. If in doubt about a leftover food throw it out. Food poisoning does not necessarily have a bad smell or taste. Just because food doesn't seem spoiled doesn't mean it is all right to eat.

MAKE A HOLIDAY APPLE CANDLE RING

If you are looking for a last minute decorating idea, an apple candle ring decorated with evergreens may be one of your most intersting Christmas decorations this year, especially on your holiday dinner table.

Your first decision involves the color of apples and candles and kind of greenery you will use.

To make the ring, remove the stems of 5 to 10 apples and scoop out holes large enough for the candles you plan to use. To keep the apples from shriveling, coat them with clear lacquer.

Next, string the apples on a coathanger wire or a heavy 14-gauge wire about 36-inches long, spacing the apples evenly. Bend the wire into a circle and hold it in place by putting both ends into one apple.

To complete, use a few drops of melted candlewax to fasten the candles in place inside the apples, and cover the wire with sprigs of greenery.

At the recent annual Republican Governor's Conference in Williamsburg, Virginia, newly elected Governor of Texas William P. Clements said: "President Carter was in trouble in Texas before I got elected and he's in trouble now. I'm absolutely committed to denying him Texas in 1980." Clements is Texas first Republican governor in 105 years.

Quote of the week: President Carter said two years earlier: "This state (Texas) is one of greatness, of vision, of understandingness, and competence. You have produced great leaders."

Festive chicken dishes

Remove skillet cover, arrange chicken and onions to side and add parsley and mushrooms, cap side down. Continue to cook, adjusting heat to medium low, until chicken is done (about 20 minutes). Sprinkle with garlic salt and pepper. Serve hot with drippings from pan poured over chicken. Makes four to six servings.

STIR-FRIED CHICKEN WITH WALNUTS

3 broiler-fryer chicken breasts, boned
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sherry
1 tablespoon cornstarch
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup canned Oriental vegetables, drained
1 package (7 oz.) frozen snow peapods (defrosted in refrigerator)
½ cup walnut pieces
¼ cup chicken broth

Slice chicken breasts into small thin pieces. Mix together salt, sherry and cornstarch. Pour mixture over chicken and coat well; allow to marinate for 10 minutes. In large fry pan heat oil with minced garlic over high heat. Add chicken and stir-fry for 3 to 4 minutes. Add vegetables and snow peapods and continue to stir-fry for one minute.

Add walnut pieces and chicken broth; reduce heat slightly, cover and cook for two minutes more. Serve on Chinese noodles or rice. Makes four to six servings.

Homes sought for the elderly

LANCASTER -- The Christmas season is the time for giving and for sharing. It is a time for family gatherings, fellowship and fun. However, an older person with no friends or relatives close by is often lonely over the holidays. In fact, life can be lonely for these people all year long.

Through the Shared Living Program, the Lancaster Office of Aging arranges to have an older person "adopted" into the home of another individual or family.

"We stress the family atmosphere," says Mrs. Jean Pulinka, Shared Living Coordinator. "This is not a boarding home situation where the older person stays in his room all day. We want the older person to be accepted as part of the family."

Some commitment is required on the part of those who open up their homes. They are asked to provide a furnished bedroom and do the meals, laundry and cleaning, although the older person may help if he or she wishes.

But there are also many safeguards built into the program. A home provider is able to screen any person to decide whether he or she would fit into his home. The coordinator works closely with the home and the individual to ensure a satisfactory arrangement for everybody concerned. And there is no set time limit for the arrangement so that if family circumstances change there is no ongoing commitment.

Many families that have shared their homes with an elderly person enjoy the contact with another generation. They like having a grandparent figure around and enjoy the contact with the past that this provides. There is also a financial remuneration for the family.

For more information, contact Mrs. Jean Pulinka, Office of Aging, 50 N. Duke Street, Lancaster, Pa. 717-299-7979.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

Spellbound, we sat last Sunday as the domed ceiling of our school district planetarium transformed from a network of mundane white tiles into a sea of shining stars nestled against a velvety black sky.

"What was the Star of Bethlehem?" was the question we had gathered to ask. With sight and the resounding tones of accompanying carols, we scanned the skies of 2,000 years ago, searching for that same light that men have sought for centuries since.

Was it a meteorite, an uncommonly brilliant shooting star? Was it a comet, dazzling wise men as they peered heavenward? Was it a configuration of several solar system planets, a phenomenon that occurs at intervals of 800,000 years?

But, the "what" of that light pales beside the "why" of it.

Because of its light, generations have focused on a love, a joy, a peace, a hope that fills the hearts of all believers.

That light lives on today, illuminated and explained, not with modern technology, but from within the hearts of mankind.

You are the light. You reflect the glory of that star seen long ago from the dry and windy hills of Palestine.

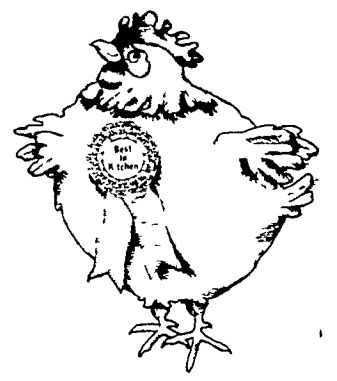
Your light glows in the shining eyes of a toddler, hands clasped before the overwhelming beauty of a newly-lit tree, manger scene shining beneath.

Your light shines in the happy eyes of a lonely person, remembered with a gift of thoughtfulness, a kind word, a chance to share Christmas with the family of man.

Your light shines in the joyful eyes of Christmas Eve worshippers, faces glowing in the candlelight of a darkened sanctuary, as they raise their voices to the haunting chords of "Silent Night".

May the light that is Christmas fill your hearts, your homes, your lives with blessing and peace, not just at this season, but throughout the year.

Merry Christmas!



A Blessed Christmas...

LET US REJOICE ANEW IN THE SHINING WONDER OF CHRISTMAS . . . MAY THE PEACE AND HOPE AND LOVE OF THIS HOLY SEASON BE WITH US ALWAYS.

Ethel McGarvey was presented a honorarium gift on December 19 from the Farm and Home Center for her 13 years of service. Presenting the gift is Clarence Keener, representing the Board of Directors. Mrs. McGarvey's husband stands with his wife. In the background is a plaque with the name of donors to the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster. It was through Mrs. McGarvey's records that this plaque was made possible.

Ethel McGarvey honored

LANCASTER - Mrs. Ethel McGarvey of East Petersburg was honored December 19 for her 13 years of service as secretary to the Farm and Home Foundation.

On behalf of the Board of Directors, Clarence Keener, presented an honorarium to Mrs. McGarvey saying "this is a token of appreciation for the many times over the years that you have not been paid in full for your services. It is a reward for something well done."

Working out of her home Mrs. McGarvey made mailings for the campaign for funds for the Farm and Home Center. She also kept up to date cards of donors. Her records were used to place names on the plaque which now hangs in the lobby of the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

Mrs. McGarvey is retiring from the work because of a full time job in a school cafeteria.

Horse imports from Belgium and West Germany banned

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Breeding age horses from Belgium and the Federal Republic of Germany can no longer be imported into the United States because contagious equine metritis, a breeding disease of horses, has been diagnosed in those countries.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) placed a similar ban on horse imports from the United Kingdom, Ireland, France and Australia in September 1977, when this newly discovered equine disease was found in those countries. However, it was later found that the disease was introduced in Kentucky Thoroughbred breeding stock by two stallions from France that had been imported just prior to the ban.

Quarantines and testing in Kentucky by State, industry and USDA veterinarians limited and controlled this outbreak. Strict sanitary measures in the breeding sheds and continual testing of possibly exposed Thoroughbred mares are now being used to eradicate the disease organism from affected U.S. horses. The ban will only apply to breeding stock; geldings and horses under two years of age will not be included in this action.

Equine metritis is a highly contagious genital infection of horses. The stallion is a carrier of the disease organism and usually can be freed of the bacteria by disinfection followed by treatment of the genitalia with specific antibiotics. The organism readily infects mares, causing early abortion or failure to conceive.

Antibiotic treatment is used to free mares of the infection, but treatment is not always successful.

Soviets bullish on our cattle

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The United States completed a record sale of breeding cattle to the Russians in mid-October when it shipped 450 Santa Gertrudis beef cattle to Moscow. An earlier shipment contained 95 dairy breeding bulls—85 Holstein and 10 Brown Swiss, bringing the total to 545 head. According to USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service, the largest previous sale of breeding cattle to the Soviets was 218 in 1976.

Berks Farmers' Assn. starts membership drive

By LAUREL SCHAEFFER
Staff Correspondent

LEESPORT - Berks County Farmers' Association kicked-off their annual membership drive December 11, as more than 20 committeemen met at the Berks County Agricultural Center, here, to organize "One of the most important things the Association does each year," described Gerald Stephens, manager of program development and training with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

Stephens addressed the group, encouraging the members to continue to do an outstanding job. "You are the model for other Counties," he told the farmers, "but you have to stay on your toes, even top brass can lose it's shine." Stephens was refering to the recent accomplishments made by the County association, including the honor of being named this years All Star County of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association. Berks has won this award, the highest recognition a County can receive, six times.

Stephens, who is also the field service manager for regions I, II, and IV, emphasized the importance of agriculture and the need for a strong organization such as the Farmers' Association. Especially in these times when farmers are under constant pressure from state regulations. He pointed out bills passed by the legislature which have been helpful to the farmers, because of the clout exerted by this organization. These accomplishments include a bill extempting the farmer from sales tax on many agricultural products.

"If we are going to solve some of the problems of agriculture, then you, the members of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association will be the ones to do it," Stephens concluded.

Heading the membership drive for the County, are Lloyd Dreibelbis, Shoemakersville, and Harry Shaak, Hamburg, who is co-chairmen. So far they have enrolled more than half of the members needed to reach the County goal of 1047. Reaching the membership goal is one of several prerequisites needed to be eligible for the All Star County Award each year.

Jack Kooker, County president, mentioned that the annual dues were increased this year to $40. He explained that $29 now go to the state association and $11 are for the County association. The County dues are used for such things as: newsletters, PACMA orders, postage and phone calls, County board materials, County directories, legislative and training meetings, public displays, insurance, conventions, and The Voice, a weekly newsletter published by the state association.

Kooker and the co-chairman of the membership drive added that the farmers of Berks County are assured of the benefits of a strong organization by their membership dues, and their dues are an investment in one of the most effective farm family organizations.

Lloyd Dreibelbis, Harry Shaak, Jack Kooker, and Irene Grim, membership processor (standing left to right) help to kick off the Berks County Farmers' Association membership drive.

"The Berks County Farmers' Association is the voice of agriculture here in Berks County, and if we are to remain free to formulate action to achieve development of a most profitable and perminant system of agriculture, then we need to be members of this association," Kooker said.

GAO to investigate FDA on nitrite additive controversy

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The General Accounting Office (GAO) plans to investigate the Food and Drug Administration's (FDA) and USDA's handling of the controversial nitrite issue. Seven congressman have called for a probe to find out why the agencies didn't evaluate research submitted by the Massachusets Institute of Technology. The agencies allegedly had the report for four months. Iowa State University scientists and the Council for Agricultural Science and Technology (CAST) have both been highly critical of the MIT report in evaluations. No results are expected from investigations until January.

It is also noted that the Agriculture Department and Food and Drug Administration have asked the scientific community and government researchers to evaluate the MIT study to determine if further research is needed. According to reports, the dosage in rats tested was equal to human consumption of 23 tons of bacon and drippings daily for 70 years.

Angus program developed for junior members

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. – A job placement program for young Angus breeders has been developed to help bring together qualified youngsters interested in obtaining Summer jobs, and Angus breeders who need Summer help, reports Jerry Lipsey, director of junior activities for the American Angus Association.

"The program will give our junior members greater opportunity to observe and be involved with good Angus operations," Lipsey emphasized. "And at a time when qualified part time farm and livestock help is hard to find it offers Angus breeders an opportunity to get good summer employees and also to help a youngster gain valuable experience and earn college expense money," Lipsey said.

Both young people and potential employers should contact the American Angus Association or their regional manager as soon as possible. An application for employment will be sent to all youngsters who request them. The applications must be filled out and returned to the Association. These applications will then be made available to Angus breeders who want to participate in the program. The jobs will include all types of farm and ranch work, depending upon the abilities of the junior member and the needs of the breeder.

Junior members of the American Angus Association must be 16 years or older to apply. The program will be national in scope, according to Lipsey, and is designed to give enthusiastic, ambitious young people the opportunity to learn how good Angus operations are managed. The opportunities for employment will depend on the applicant's experience and abilities.

Egg producers object to carton ruling

WASHINGTON, D.C. - In the process of preparing written comment on USDA's proposed rule on essential uses of natural gas, United Egg Producers has learned that the production of egg cartons is not included in the proposed list of essential agricultural uses.

In the proposed rule, USDA pointed out that once an agricultural activity is started, it must be carried through to completion, or significant losses can occur. USDA cited the production of milk as an example, and stressed the importance of including milk cartons as an essential link in the chain of production. Milk cartons qualify as an "essential agricultural use" because they are "sanitary containers," reasons USDA.

However, according to one USDA official, some manufacturers produce a multiple line of goods including containers for food products, and "we have to draw the line somewhere." Using this logic, USDA did not include egg cartons as an "essential agricultural use" of natural gas.

UEP objects to this kind of reasoning. Just as milk cartons are an essential link in milk production, so too are egg cartons an integral part of egg production. As such, egg cartons should also be included in USDA's proposed list of essential agricultural uses, and UEP will emphasize this point in written comments on the USDA proposed rule.

Vo-ag funds may be cut

WASHINGTON, D.C. – National Farmers Union President Tony T. Dechant told the annual convention of the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association that a proposed cut in federal funds for vocational education should be vigorously opposed. Such a cut would be "short-sighted considering the growing participation of young people and adults in vocational training."

Expressing astonishment at the proposal by HEW Secretary Joseph Califano that fiscal 1979 appropriations be reduced $200 million, Dechant asked, "Is he saying that he would rather channel HEW funds into welfare programs than to use them to prepare people for useful and productive work?" Califano had called vocational education "one of HEW's least effective programs."

Rural students already have less access to vocational training than metro and suburban residents and, at the beginning of the current school term, many schools in the Midwest and West had difficulty finding vocational farm instructors, Dechant declared.

Hathaway nominated

WASHINGTON, D.C. - President Carter has announced that he will nominate Dale E. Hathaway, currently assistant secretary of agriculture, to be under secretary of agriculture for international and commodity programs. Hathaway, due to become the third ranking official at USDA, was director of the International Food Policy Reseach Institute before his appointment.

One Tank Does It All

Pumps, Spreads, Injects

The Badger Vacuum Spreader Tank is both pump and spreader in one convenient, low cost unit. Designed for slurry manure, Badger tanks come in 1,000, 1,500 and 2,300 gallon models. Rugged PTO driven pump forms a vacuum for filling or pressure for spreading. Tanks fill in 3 to 5 minutes—empty in 5 to 6 minutes in the field. Choose from adjustable spreader plate or manure injector. Heavy duty construction, including full length tank support skids, makes Badger the most dependable vacuum spreader you can buy. PRE-CONDITION NOW FOR COLD WEATHER

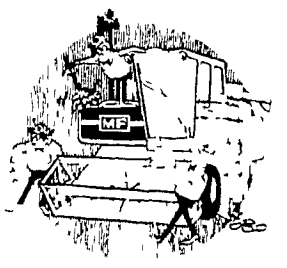
You know, more likely than not ... the work won't stop just because cold weather sets in. So if you want your tractor to have all the protection it really needs, pre-condition now. Our factory trained mechanics will see to it that your tractor gets a general maintenance check-up: tune-up, oil change, brakes, transmission, clutch and hydraulics. We'll make necessary repairs, using genuine Massey-Ferguson parts. Give your tractor a good bill of health. Stop in today and pre-condition for cold weather now.

DON'T GET CAUGHT WITH YOUR COMBINE DOWN!



GET A PRE-SEASON CHECK-UP NOW!

When you treat bloody scours (swine dysentery), you're only fighting part of the problem

Bloody scours is a cyclic disease Treatment with Lincomix® (lincomycin) will disrupt the cycle and bring it under control

But once treatment stops, bloody scours can, and often does, break out again even among animals you thought had recovered

Protect against bloody scours all the way to market with Lincomix.

For effective control of bloody scours all the way to market, start your herd on Lincomix at the first signs of the disease The treatment level is 100 grams of lincomycin per ton of feed After three weeks at this level, or following disappearance of symptoms, continue medication at 40 grams lincomycin per ton of feed up to six days before slaughter

And on those farms with a history of bloody scours, feed 40 grams lincomycin per ton of feed to keep outbreaks from recurring, even though symptoms are not apparent

See us today Lincomix belongs in your hog rations!

Lincomix—THE HEAVYWEIGHT feed additive for the treatment and control of bloody scours from start to finish.

Look for lincomycin on the feed tag at the following dealers:

Gift plants take special care

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN - Caring for poinsettias, chrysanthemums, azaleas, cyclamen, and Jerusalem cherry as Christmas gift plants is not difficult if a few guidelines are followed. These plants should be given bright light but not direct sun. The best temperature range is between 60 and 70 degrees F. and somewhat cooler at night.

One of the most frequent problems encountered is dry, overheated homes. This causes browning of leaf tips and shortens the flowering period severely. Extra humidity may be obtained by placing smaller plants on top of a larger pan or tray filled with pebbles and water.

The water level should not be high enough to touch the bottom of the pot. For larger pots, place small containers such as pie tins of water on top of the soil. Apply water when the soil on the surface is dry to the touch.

Good drainage is essential; the drainage hole on the bottom of the pot should allow excess water to flow out. Empty the dish the pot is sitting on so that the roots do not sit in water.

Newly purchased plants from the florist usually do not need fertilizer for the first six weeks after you receive them. Over fertilization may cause more harm than good so do not add more than recommended. Azaleas and chrysanthemums may be cut back after the blooms have faded. Keep soil barely moist and in a cool location until Spring when they may be transplanted outdoors after the frost is gone.

ARE YOU BOTHERED BY PROFIT-ROBBING STARLINGS?

Starlings cost you big money in terms of feed wastage. 1,000 starlings consume at least $100 worth of feed (in addition to what they spoil) in a single winter. Flocks of many thousand birds are common.

Starlings are known carriers of a number of profit-robbing diseases including TGE (Transmissible gastroenteritis).

JOIN A STARLING CONTROL PROGRAM IN LANCASTER COUNTY USING

PURINA STARLICIDE COMPLETE

STARLICIDE ADVANTAGES:

- Pellet size is selective to starlings.
- Contains a painless, slow acting poison.
- Proven effective.
- Dead starlings are not dangerous to other animals. Only 10% of the lethal compound is retained in the starling body.
- Use levels of the product are low.

SUGGESTED CONTROL PROGRAM:

- Order Starlicide now for delivery in early January.
- Bait with Starlicide on the 2nd day following a snow on frozen ground. Best results are obtained when all producers in an area bait on the same day.

World tractor market analyzed

MENLO PARK, Calif. - The $7 billion 953,000 unit farm tractor market is analyzed in a new report published by Dataquest. Based on the data gathered, Dataquest has concluded the world market for farm tractors will grow at a significantly reduced rate of 1.7 per cent per year between 1977 and 1980, (one million units valued at nearly $10 billion) compared with an historical growth rate of 5.7 per cent per year between 1972 and 1977. Latin America is expected to have the highest growth rate (7 per cent per year) between now and 1980 although North America and Western Europe will be the largest unit markets during the forecast period.

A full assessment of consumption based on production, imports, and exports is made of five major regions of the world. Every major producing country is discussed in detail with a discussion of historical trends and projections of unit tractor markets for each country and region to 1980.

DATAQUEST, a subsidiary of A.C. Nielsen Company, is a research and consulting firm that provides advisory services to industry and the financial community. Areas of expertise include capital equipment, copying and duplicating, semiconductors, electronics, word processing, small computer systems, and the paper/printer industry.

Public invited to help with foreign investment act

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Foreign investors in U.S. farm land will have to report their agricultural holdings to the U.S. Department of Agriculture under provisions of the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said recently the Department is drawing up regulations to implement the Act. He asked the public to help in the process. Written comments must be received no later than Jan. 5; the regulations must be written by Jan. 12, 90 days after the law's enactment. In addition, a public hearing was held at the department Dec. 14.

The Act defines "foreign persons" and requires those who hold, acquire, or transfer interests in "agricultural land" to report their holdings to the Department. It also specifies reporting periods and the content of reports. Reports will be available for public inspection at the department within 10 days after they are received. No reports are required until the regulations become effective.

The Act gives the secretary some regulatory discretion in the areas of enforcement and implementation, including requiring additional information from foreign investors beyond that specified in the act, defining "agricultural land", and other areas related to compliance.

In assessing reports, the secretary will look at the effects of foreign investment on family farms and rural communities and will periodically report his findings to the President, to Congress and to appropriate state departments of agriculture.

Secretary Bergland said he is particularly interested in comments on the following topics:

--definition of "agricultural land;"

--nature of the interest the "foreign person" has in "agricultural land" that would trigger reporting requirements; and

--whether there should be a minimum acreage figure which would trigger reporting requirements.

Written comments should be sent to Paul Sindt, team leader, staff of the deputy administrator for state and county operations, USDA-ASCS, room 3757-S, Washington, D.C., 20013. All comments will be available for public inspection in that office during regular business hours.

Details of the Act, as well as information concerning its impelmentation appear in the Dec. 6 Federal Register. Register.

NOVEMBER 1978

Lactation credits of 25,563 pounds of milk and 818 pounds of butterfat gave a cow in the Arnold Acres herd first place in the milk production list. The top producer is "Joyce", a 6-year old registered Holstein.

Tops in butterfat production was "Arlene," owned by Isaac Zimmerman. She produced 21,702 pounds of milk, had a 4.8 per cent test, and had 1031 pounds of butterfat.

Chambersburg FFA'er recognized nationally

CHAMBERSBURG - Dwight Lee Mickey's decision to enroll in the academic curriculum of Chambersburg delayed his start in vocational agriculture and the FFA. However, when he started his FFA career in September of 1975 as a junior of Chambersburg Area Senior High School, his projects of apples, Indian corn, and pumpkins were already at the harvest stage and his project book was up to date from January 1, 1975.

Dwight's academic involvement in high school (graduating in the top thirty of a class of 700) somewhat limited his FFA activities. However, his contributions and accomplishments were numerous. Among his accomplishments during his high school career were: Chapter Scholarship Award, first in area fruit judging contest, first in county FFA public speaking, first in State Public Speaking, first in area for conservation speaking, first in County for project book contest, first in County for work experience, Keystone Farmer Degree, and Who's Who in American Agriculture.

Dwight's interest in vocational agriculture has not slacked off since graduation from high school. He has been constantly working his way to eventual ownership of Shatzer Orchards, Chambersburg, where is now a partner and is manager of all orchard operations which include a roadside fruit stand.

Dwight Mickey

Dwight, currently a sophomore at Shippensburg State College majoring in business administration has his sights set for the American Farmer Degree and has many FFA accomplishments since graduating since high school. These include a gold medal in the national Regional Proficiency Award for Fruit and Vegetable Production in 1978, a fourth place in the National FFA Essay Contest, and Chevron's-1978 National Spokesman of the Year Award.

Dwight has been a hard worker and spends much of his time, when not attending classes at Shippensburg, working at the family orchard. However, his activities do not stop there.

Dwight has sold apples and exhibited fruit at the Farm Show since 1974; been a member of the Franklin County Fair Association since 1972; member of Franklin Co. Horticultural Society since 1975; member Pa. Horticulture Society since 1977; member National Peach Council since 1978; member Pa. Farmers Association since 1977; member of Cumberland Valley Cooperative since 1977; member of Chambersburg Young Farmers since 1977; member of Mercersburg Sportsmen since 1970; works in cooperation with Pa. Fish and Game Commission to protect natural resources; and attends St. James United Brethren Church.

In his free time Dwight likes to read up on the latest agricultural news and in the Winter he enjoys snowmobile riding.

Dwight is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mickey of 2175 Lincoln Way West, Chambersburg.

Proposed rail freight rates petitioned

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a suspension and investigation of the increased freight rate tariff filed by the nation's railroads.

In the petition, Bergland noted that "the Department (of Agriculture) feels that the protested increases will have a serious detemine tal effect on American Agriculture...and on grain, soybeans, other oilseeds, and cotton interests in particular. In no case should agricultural products bear a higher percentage increase than the average of all commodities."

The increases proposed for these agricultural commodities are approximately double the average proposed increase on some non-agricultural commodities.

These inequitable increases, Bergland said, would have a serious impact on grain producers who would have to absorb a disproportionate share of the rail. The impact of the proposed increase would further compound the economic setbacks of the farmer caused by railcar shortages in 1978. Since the beginning of this year, these shortages have caused substantial financial problems for grain farmers and country elevators, due to lost sales and excessive interest expenses on grain that could not be moved.

Bergland said: "It is unreasonable for the railroads to excessively increase grain rates when they cannot fulfill their statutory obligation to provide adequate service, and especially unreasonable to raise grain rates more that the 7 per cent average of increases on other commodities."

Potted poinsettias are a Christmas favorite

FLEMINGTON, N.J. – New variations of an old Christmas theme, the poinsettia, will be in many homes and offices this year, according to experts.

Most of the new varieties hold up extremely well after they reach the home or office. Occasionally the red "flowers," or bracts, and the leaves will last until April or May.

New poinsettia varieties have been developed by several commercial companies and are now in local florist shops.

The widely grown variety "Annette Hegg," which has a red flower, has excellent keeping quality. "Eckespoint-C-1" has large red bracts and is often grown in large pots and tubs.

Several new varieties in pink, white, and red are available in quantity.

Poinsettias fall into two general types, branched and unbranched. Florists produce branching by removing the growing tip early in the season, thus causing the development of sideshoots.

The result is two or more "flowers" on the same plant, usually with smaller bracts than those of the unbranched plant.

Several branched plants usually are planted together in a single pot to form the typical Christmas specimen. Unbranched plants have only one "flower," but are grouped together in the same way.

For a more informal appearing plant, one can select a pot of branched poinsettias. They are fuller and bushier than the unbranched plants, which are very regular in growth and have large bracts in proportion to their size.

When one selects a poinsettia, he should look for large symmetrical bracts and stems that are covered with dark green leaves.

Pa. Extension forester to retire

UNIVERSITY PARK - Edward P. Farrand, associate professor of forestry extension at Penn State, will retire January 1 with almost 28 years of service to the University.

A native of Troy Hills, New Jersey, Farrand was appointed to the Cooperative Extension Service faculty in 1951. He received two degrees from Penn State; a bachelor of science in forestry in 1940 and master of forestry in 1962.

Professor Farrand helped organize the Pennsylvania Maple Syrup Producers' Council in 1963. The council, comprising representatives of five area maple syrup groups, promotes the production and sale of maple products. Currently he serves as the organization's advisor.

Edward P. Farrand

In 1954 he assisted in forming the Youth Forestry Training Camp.

Farrand served as chairman of numerous woodland management workshops and forest landowner conferences. Since 1951 he has been chairman of the Pennsylvania Farm Show's maple products and Christmas tree exhibits. He has been in charge of certain forestry and maple products exhibits at the annual Agricultural Progress Days.

Upon retirement he plans to travel and do limited consulting.

Christmas in '39 didn't take much to be fine

By JERRY WEBB
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. -- Christmas came to our farm in a very special way back in those days. It sort of spread over the countryside and spilled out of strange parcels and tumbled down attic steps. It came in small packages tied with bright ribbon and in large red socks hung from a smoke-blackened fireplace. Measured by today's standards, it was simple – even meager, for times were hard and there wasn't much money to be spent for unnecessary items. The whole thing probably didn't cost a hundred dollars, counting all the presents given and received and all the food eaten by the three generations of family gathered there.

It must have been 1939 or '40 – the first Christmas I can really remember. The country was in a depression and no one was hit any harder than an Ozark farm family. But we had Christmas anyway, even though it must have meant some real scraping and saving.

It's funny the things you remember about a Christmas that happened so long ago. The big gift was a sled. Not your typical shiny new job bought in a hardware store. This was handmade of oak and painted red by a grandfather who gave what he could – his time and talent – to make a small boy happy. That was the sturdiest sled ever made. The runners were solid pieces of wood bound with metal strips so they would last. It was about the same width and length as a modern sled but there was no way to steer it and it weighed at least 30 pounds.

There were other gifts that Christmas but nothing as important or as practical as that sled – it was Christmas and always will be to me. Oh sure, I remember other Christmases and other gifts but nothing quite so special. There was a cap with ear flaps, a leather jacket with a furry lining, my first pair of cowboy boots and a cap pistol that shot six caps at a time in a cylinder just like a real six shooter.

I suppose a country kid today would be offended by the things I remember about Christmas – homemade presents that we gave and received, comic books exchanged with classmates at the school party, large family gatherings where great-aunts and uncles crowded the house and told stories by the hour.

Christmas was different with three generations living in one large house. There were traditions to be followed, things that had to be done. The tree was cut on the farm and trimmed mostly with homemade decorations. A fire burned in the fireplace day and night for at least three days, certain stories were told and read every season to remind us of what Christmas meant and why our family observed it the way we did.

I have strong memories of a country church and a one-room school – both were important at Christmastime. There was something great about the closeness that developed in those rural institutions that are gone now. I still remember my lines from one of those Christmas plays when I was perhaps 10 or 11 years old and had a leading role in the school Christmas play. There were about 30 of us in grades 1 through 8. And one teacher was responsible for our education and cultural development. She tried hard, but I doubt many great scholars or actors came out of that room. But our Christmas parties were something – lots of popcorn and homemade candy, a gift exchange and handmade presents to take home to our parents.

We were a small, close-knit group in that community. We grew up together – same school, same church, same 4-H club. We knew each other's families and it was not unusual for the teacher to have educated our parents.

I knew those kids so well and yet, except for my own brothers, I don't know where one of them is today. I can remember their names and I can still see their young faces as they were then.

That one-room school is gone now – consolidated a few years after I graduated. The farm house is gone, too – torn down to make way for a highway. And the fields where I used to shock wheat and ride horses became a shopping mall. I suppose most of the people from that first Christmas are gone also.

I remember that Christmas long ago as clearly as last year's. And as I prepare for my own family's Christmas I think back to a time and a farm house and a feeling that was and is Christmas to me.

TUNKHANNOCK - Sire Power has transferred a native Pennsylvanian to be it's newest representative in Indiana. Ronald Flatness, Sire Power's Director of Sales & Promotion announced William Bovier from Canton, Pa., is now Sire Power's District Sales Manager for Indiana.

Bovier's new duties include direct herd semen sales, teaching A.I. training schools, and promoting the Sire Power young sire sampling program.

Bovier was raised on a Holstein farm. He became a Northeastern Breeders Association technician in his home county, Bradford, Pa., in 1970 following three years of Army duty in Germany.

Sire Power is a farmer owned and controlled cooperative with Headquarters at Tunkhannock, Pa. Sire Power traces it's origin to the first A.I. organization in the United States, established over forty years ago.

Pa. production down from 1977

HARRISBURG - Based on acreage, utilization and production data, Pennsylvania produced more rye but less potato, wheat, oat and barley than the revised 1977 crops, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Potato acres harvested, at 25,000 is down two per cent, with a yield of 250 hundredweight per acre, the same as last year. The result is a two per cent decline in production to 6.25 million cwt.

Wheat acres harvested were down nine per cent to 245,000. Yield is estimated at 33.0 bushels. unchanged from last year, with the resulting production of 8,085,000 bushels forecast.

Oats acres harvested were off three per cent to 340,000 while yield remained the same at 53.0 bushels. Production of 18 million bushels is down three per cent from last year's crop.

Harvested acres of barley was unchanged at 125,000. At a decreased yield of three bushels to 47.0 bushels, a crop of 5,875,000 bushels is forecast, down 375,000 bushels from last year.

Rye acres harvested at 16,000 is up one-third with an increased yield at 32.0 bushels resulting in a 38 per cent increase in production to 512,000 bushels.

At the United States level, Fall potato production is estimated at a record 319 million cwt., one per cent above the November 1 forecast and four per cent above the 1977 crop. United States production of winter wheat is down 19 per cent to 1.2 million bushels, while all wheat output is off 12 per cent to 1.8 billion bushels, both due primarily to less acres harvested

Reduced yield in rye was offset by an increased acreage harvested resulting in a 51.0 per cent rise in production to 26 million bushels. As both harvested acres and yield are down, the United States oats crop dropped 20 per cent to 601,477,000 bushels. A decrease in barley acres harvested offset a 4.5 bushel increase in yield resulting in a lower crop of 447 million bushels

Big show upcoming

DENVER, Colo. - Perhaps the greatest display of bull power in the history of the Charolais breed in the Western Hemisphere will be located in Denver's storied Stockyards, Jan 11-20

These bulls will be assembled to represent a portion of the new "top of the line" herd sires within the breed which has scored top rating in carcass contests all across the country in 1978, based on carcass value per day of age—wider profit margin for producer, feeder and packer

The display, along with representatives of the breed, will stand by throughout the 1979 National Western Stock Show for the benefit of the thousands of cattlemen who attend Denver's 'Granddaddy of 'em All" livestock exposition

The showcase of Charolais genetics will be located adjacent to the Livestock Exchange building, in front of the National Western Livestock Center Sales arena and in front of the famed stockyards.

It is only one of several things which will draw those people interested in Charolais cattle to the big Denver exposition this January

Entries of Charolais and Charolais-cross cattle in the pen bull show, feeder calf show, junior steer and heifer shows, and the Tom Prescott Roll of Excellence Charolais open breeding cattle show are expected to reflect increased National Western participation by Charolais breeders.

A spokesman for the American-International Charolais Association said that activities in Denver will emphasize a growing acceptance and interest in Charolais cattle in the commercial beef production segment of the industry

Enthusiasm changes a loafer into a go-getter

By DIETER KRIEG

EPHRATA — If you've got enthusiasm, you've got a head start on the road to success in whatever you do, exclaims Karl Kettering, a motivational and inspirational speaker who travels across the country to deliver his message to businessmen, industrialists, athletes, and clubs. On Tuesday of this week, however, he stayed in his home town and gave his presentation to the annual Christmas party of the Ephrata Young Farmers.

"Enthusiasm is that certain something that makes us great. It makes us friends. It makes you smile, it makes others smile. It builds confidence in yourself and in your fellow man. Enthusiasm even makes fun out of hard work. It changes things, people, situations, attitudes. And enthusiasm even changes prejudices. I've seen it happen," Kettering stated.

"It changes the procrastinator into a producer, the pessimist into an optimist, the loafer into a go-getter," he continued.

"Enthusiasm tells things about the kind of worker you are. Enthusiasm opens more doors, and closes more sales. It turns prospects into customers.

Explaining the meaning of the word, Kettering said "enthusiasm" comes from the Greek words meaning "God within you."

"If you've got entusiasm, give it to everyone around you and thank God for it! And if you don't have enthusiasm, get down on your hands on knees and pray for it!" Kettering proclaimed

The son of a minister, Kettering has delivered his motivational series of lectures to 19 of the 26 major league baseball clubs in the United States. In addition, he talks to business organizations, industry, and clubs. He conducts "Progress Through People" seminars which outline self motivation, sales skills, and management techniques. A 20-year veteran of salesmanship, he has spent the past nine years as sales mnager for WBYO Radio, Boyertown.

> "You're never enthusiastic about anything that you haven't taken time for to become involved with personally."

Karl K. Kettering

He is regarded as the most successful spot salesman in Christian radio.

"It's fun being enthusiastic!" Kettering emphasized at various points in his speech. He's convinced of it, and he tries hard to convince others of it.

"Enthusiasm may be the most persuasive as well as the most contagious quality in the human personality," Kettering observed. "Many people have lost their entusiasm. That's sad. But what's more sad is that many people never had any enthusiasm to lose."

According to Kettering, enthusiasm has three fundamental requirements: 1 Personal involvement, 2. First-hand knowledge, and 3. A positive attitude.

"You're never enthusiastic about anything that you haven't taken time for to become involved with personally," Kettering challenged. As for first-hand knowledge, he says he personally won't address a subject unless he has first-hand knowledge of it. According to him, it's a prerequisite for true enthusiasm. A positive attitude is essential because "the world is full of negative thinkers" but the positive sides of life need to be accentuated.

"Everything about us should be positive, but what happens is we get clinkers in our thinkers, don't we?" the professional motivator asked. His task is to rid people of negative thoughts.

Quoting Andrew Carnegie, Kettering said: "Show me a person with above average enthusiasm, and I'll show you a person who'll make history."

Kettering himself is a firm believer in those words. "More often than not, enthusiasm is the difference between winning and losing," he says.

According to Kettering, Alabama football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant once observed: "Playing at home can count for an extra 30 per cent towards victory because of the enthusiasm that a home crowd can kindle in a group of players."

Noting that many victories in athletic contests come by very small margins, Kettering says: "Enthusiasm gives an individual that slight edge, and that extra edge is often the key between victory and defeat. When people have enthusiasm, great things can be achieved.

"Enthusiasm is like a disease; it's highly contagious; no one is immune to it. If you've got it, everyone around you is sure to get it. It spreads fast. If you've got it, you show it. If you've got it you feel it. It lights up your face, puts spring in your step, a twinkle in your eye. Enthusiasm builds power within us. It pulls us out of mediocrity and common-place. Enthusiasm is that certain something that makes us great," Kettering pointed out.

Illustrating his point, Kettering asked his audience to think about waking up to an alarm clock on a morning when it's cold and blustery outside. The person with a positive attitude greets the day with a cheerful "Good morning, Lord!" while the unenthusiastic individual might say "Good Lord, morning!"

According to Kettering, enthusiasm is actually an end result, and not a beginning part of any endeavor.

"When you know you can do something, and you're confident that you can do it, and you desire to do it above all else, enthusiasm is the natural result. And this all adds up to winning. I know that we're all motivated by winning," Kettering said.

In concluding his remarks, he offered the following poem:

"If you think you are beaten, you are.
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you'd like to win, but think you can't, it's almost certain you won't.
If you think you will lose, you've lost, for out in the world you will find success begins with a person's will.
It's all in the state of mind.
If you think you're outclassed, you are.
You've got to think high to rise.
You've got to be sure of yourself before you'll ever win a prize.
Life's battles won't always go to the strongest or fastest man. But sooner or later the person who wins is the person who thinks he can."

the Tough, Tested and Proven "pig-saver" floor.

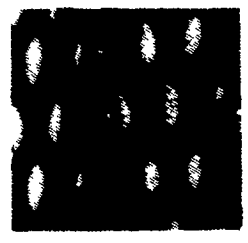
PERMA-BOND* KOMFY-KOTE CONSTRUCTION



A tough acid-resistant plastisol compound permanently bonded to a rugged steel mesh

- Superior Traction prevents injuries and abrasions.
- Cushioned comfort reduces stress.
- Self-cleaning. No holes or crevices to harbor bacteria.

HOW LONG WILL THEY LAST?

First produced in 1975 Tenderfoot was tested in farrowing pens for 1½ years before being marketed These original floors have been in constant use ever since WITH NO APPRECIABLE WEAR! Today's Tenderfoot floors have 6 advantages over the original pieces

1. 3 times more coating.
2. Tougher vinyl coating.
3. Extra-strength steel.
4. Treated to resist bacteria & fungi growth.
5. Improved Perma-Bond processing.
6. Strict quality control.

Constant research, development and quality control continues at the Tenderfoot factory and at the nearby 650-sow operation where the original 1975 Tenderfoot floors are still going strong

How long will a Tenderfoot last? No one knows The very first ones produced have withstood heavy use since 1975 with no appreciable wear. The floors produced today are 6 ways better than the first ones On the basis of these facts it seems safe to say that any concern over the durability of Tenderfoot flooring is unnecessary.

Winter landscape enlivened by bark, twigs

NEWARK, Del. – As Winter descends on the fields, woods and gardens, most trees and shrubs stand bare – shorn of their flowers, foliage, and fruit. How nice it is now, when touches of bright bark, colorful twigs, or berries enliven the landscape.

Some people are cheered by the sight of a stark white birch tree standing in bold relief against a somber background of evergreens or by the shiny red branches of a shrub dogwood in festive display against the snow.

One can have scenes just like these in his own yard if he plant the right kinds of trees and shrubs, says University of Delaware Extension garden specialist Dave Tatnall. There are a lot of specimens to choose from and now is a good time to see what they look like.

If one is looking for trees which have interesting bark, he can consider one of these: paper birch (peeling, chalky-white bark), gray or "clump" birch (white bark with small, black markings), true Chinese elm (peeling, mottled bark), Japanese stewartia (flaking, mottled bark), Russian olive (long strips of shredding bark), or lace-bark pine (flaking, mottled bark).

The interesting bark of trees develops with age, whereas a person will get his most colorful shrub effects with young, vigorously growing wood. Tatnall recommends the following shrubs for their brightly colored twigs and stems: redosier and Siberian dogwoods (bright red stems) yellow twig dogwood (showy yellow stems), highbush blueberry (red twigs), winter jasmine (green stems), and crapemyrtle (flaking and mottled bark on the main stems).

The twigs of the winged euonymus are unusual, not because of color, but for their curious corky ridges or "wings." Branches cut from this shrub make interesting material for flower arrangement.

If one is looking for an excuse for an outing some fine Winter day, he might enjoy paying a visit to the University of Delaware's Clark Garden in Newark. This is located in front of Agricultural Hall on Route 896 just opposite the Chrysler assembly plant. This small demonstration garden includes a number of the trees and shrubs on Tatnall's list. Or one can take a drive out to Longwood Gardens in nearby Pennsylvania.

When it comes to adding trees and shrubs to the home landscape for Winter effect, one will have his best results if he places them where their unusual bark and colorful stems will show up dramatically against a contrasting background. masses of dark evergreens, light-toned walls, rocks, fences, and snow-covered slopes can serve as effective backdrops.

The trees and shrubs Tatnall recommends should all be readily available. Mail order firms and local nurseries offer a good choice of these and similar plant materials. A person can consider their possibilities now, and make his selection this winter for planting next Spring.

Bergland blocked grain freight boosts

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A strong protest filed by USDA Secretary Bob Bergland last week with the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) is being credited with helping influence ICC's Monday decision to hold the requested 13 per cent grain freight rate boost to seven per cent on wheat and barley in the western areas. Bergland had protested that the requested increases "will have a serious detrimental effect on U.S. agriculture."

"It is unreasonable for the railroads to excessively increase grain rates when they cannot fulfull their statutory obligation to provide adequate service," Bergland said. "In no case should agricultural products bear a higher percentage increase than the seven per cent average of increases on other commodities."

Recently, ICC granted freight rate increases averaging 6.1 per cent to the railroads, effective (Dec. 15). The ICC ruling will permit the railroads to make other rate adjustments as long as the net effect is not to exceed 7 per cent guideline.

The seven per cent increase on wheat and barley will apply to such grain shipped in Wisconsin, Ilinois, and all states west of the Mississippi. A seven per cent rate also will apply to grain shipped within the South. Somewhat higher rate increases will be permitted elsewhere:

- Within points in the east and within the west, grain destined for either domestic or export use will be subject to a nine per cent increase.
- Grain shipped from the east to west, from west to south, or between east to south for domestic destinations will have a raise of nine per cent.
- All rates, east to south, including export destinations, will have an increase of 12 per cent.

On sugar beets, the ICC granted a rate increase of seven per cent in the east and south and 14 per cent in the west. A 15 per cent rate increase had been sought by the railroads.

On potatoes, where a nine to 11 per cent increase had been sought, ICC approved rate increases of 9 per cent on potatoes shipped from the south to the west, 11 per cent on shipments within the south, and seven per cent on all others.

On fruits and vegetables shipped from Texas and California, ICC allowed a seven per cent increase. A 12 per cent increase had been asked.

Baker leads Blair Co. D.H.I.A.

HOLLIDAYSBURG — Blair County, which boasts the highest D.H.I.A. average in Pennsylvania, submits the following production statistics for testing concluded last month.

The herd owned by Mrs. J. Ronald Baker leads the list in daily per cow butterfat production averages with a performance of 52.8 pounds of milk, a 4.0 percent test and 2 11 pounds of butterfat on 108 Holsteins. Second place went to the G.R. and R.D. Hoover herd, third was the herd owned by G.W. and R.G. Baker. Their respective per cow butterfat averages were 2.08 and 1.89. Next in line were High Acres Farm, Rich Lou Farms, Clover Will Farms, Emile Dilling, Blackcrest Farms, Raymond Diebold, and Charles and Mike Hoover, all at 1.87.

The high cow for the month was a grade Holstein, aged 6 years and 9 months, which produced 28,279 pounds of milk and 1027 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. She is owned by G.W. and R.G. Baker.

World food prices compared

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The boneless sirloin steak that cost $3.02 a pound in Washington D.C., Nov. 1, cost $15.87 in Tokyo and $.92 in Brazilia.

Those are findings of agricultural attaches of the U.S. Department of Agriculture who compare food costs every other month in 16 world capital cities.

Of the countries regularly surveyed, only Canada and West Germany reported food price index declines from August to September. The index for the United States remained the same during the period. It rose in the remaining 13 countries.

West Germany had the lowest food price index–143.6--followed by the Netherlands (163.4), Belgium (174.9) and the United States, which was 186.4 in September.

The attaches found beef prices were up in over half the cities surveyed. They jumped 44 per cent in Buenos Aires but dropped seven per cent in London.

Pork prices rose in 10 of the surveyed countries while poultry and egg prices dropped in many capitals. Butter prices rose in 10 of the 16 capitals. Cheese and milk prices remained somewhat stable. In almost all countries surveyed, prices for apples, potatoes and onions fell as domestic supplies were generally abundant.

Bacon, $1.96 a pound in Washington, varied from a high of $4.69 in Paris to a low of $1.53 in Pretoria. A dozen eggs costs $2.09 in Copenhagen, 60 cents in Mexico City and 84 cents in Washington. A quart of milk was $1.02 in Tokyo, 24 cents in Buenos Aires and 56 cents in Washington, D.C.

Bergland moves to strenghten USDA transportation services

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland has consolidated transportation activities of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) into a new Office of Transportation.

Bergland said the consolidation from six different agencies into the one new unit will provide better service to farmers and reduce duplication of efforts.

"We have the experience and dedication in existing USDA transportation units, but there are a number of urgent agricultural and rural development problems and issues which cannot be properly addressed without this consolidation," Bergland said.

"This department can provide greater assistance in solving major transportation issues facing farmers, such as freight car availability, rail line abandonments and regulatory matters."

The new Office of Transportation will serve as a focal point for all USDA transportation matters, including the development of agricultural and rural development transportation policy and the review, coordination and evaluation of USDA transportation programs. The new office also will represent USDA in discussions of transportation matters, including those with other government agencies.

The transportation functions of the six agencies being transferred to the Office of Transportation are:

–The Transportation Services Branch in the Agricultural marketing Service;

--The Transportation Coordinator in the Foreign Agricultural Service;

–Parts of the Transportation Economics Group and the Transportation Logistics Group in the Economics, Statistics and Cooperatives Service;

–The Office of Policy Coordination and Training in the Farmers Home Administration;

–The federal maritime functions of the Office of the General Sales Manager, and –The Transportation and Packaging laboratory in the Science and Education Administration.

A donkey basketball game will be held on January 5 at the Garden Spot High School.

NEW HOLLAND - Grassland FFA will challenge the Garden Spot faculty to a donkey basketball game on January 5. The game will get underway at 7:30 p.m.

The donkeys will be stubborn, as usual. The rules of the game are that one can only shoot while sitting on the donkey and recover loose balls while holding on to the donkey. It's fun for the entire family.

One can buy his advance tickets, from any member of the Grassland FFA.

Tickets will be available at the door $2.00 adults, $1.50 students.

Virginville Grange held Christmas party

HAMBURG - The Virginville Grange held their Christmas party on December 20. A covered dish supper began at 6:45 p.m. The Juniors put on the program with a guest appearance of Santa Claus.

Anna Heinly was accepted as a new member to the Grange. The Grange took cookies to the Wernersville State School and Berks Heim. T-shirts were given to the Hamburg State School. Donations were given to a family to repair their home that was burned, and also the Salvation Army.

The women will have their next meeting on January 8. A program on needle point will be presented.

The Youth sponsored a dance on December 16. The Fairer Sex played. The Youth will purchase a Grange Emblem to make road signs with the Grange meeting dates posted on them.

The Youth and Young Marrieds will purchase a Young Marrieds Couple sash and donate them to the State Grange.

Junior Grange members will be selling napkins. They also held a practice at the Grange Hall Saturday, December 16 for their part in the Christmas program on December 20. The Juniors will have a family Christmas party on Tuesday, December 26, at 7 p.m. Santa Claus will be there and everyone should bring a covered dish or dessert.

November milk price $11.54

NEW YORK, N.Y. – Dairy farmers supplying milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during November will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $11.54 per hundred pounds or 24.8 cents per quart. Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson, who announced November's price, also stated that the uniform farm price was $11.45 per hundredweight in October 1978 and $10.12 per hundredweight in November 1977. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive fund returned $2,095,486.47 or $.279 per hundredweight to the dairy farmer's uniform price for November. This included $344,269.17 interest earned on the fund. The fund was generated by reducing the uniform price during the high production spring months.

The total amount of milk received from the 17,787 dairy farmers supplying the New York-New Jersey Marketing Area was 750,445,437 pounds during November 1978. This was almost 18.8 million pounds above last year. The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $88,973,924.86. Mr. Wilson explained that this included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) utilized 409,953,529 pounds or 54.6 percent of the total amount of milk for Class I. The Class I milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low-test and skim milks For November 1978, handlers paid $12.15 per hundredweight, or 26.1 cents per quart, for the milk used in Class I products compared with $10.99 a year ago.

The balance of the milk, 45.4 percent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. For this milk the handlers paid $10.50 per hundredweight.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For November 1978, a differential of 13.9 cents was applied to the price for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

Estate planning workshop set

YORK – A one day conference is set for January 4, 1979 for Farm Estate Planning for estate planning professionals. The family farm is still the predominant production unit in Pennsylvania agriculture. The preservation of this form of business organization requires very careful estate planning.

This conference will assist professionals who are involved in estate planning with farm families to analyze each unique situation and enable them to keep abreast of the latest legal developments. This conference is for attorneys, bankers and trust officers, accountants, and insurance agents.

The conference topics are: Fact Finding for the Farm Family, by Lyn McGill, Division Manager, Jefferson Standard Life Insurance Company; Joint Tenancies and Associated Problems, by Donald Waisel, Attorney at Law; Tax Implications of Farm Transfers, William Boles, Certified Public Accountant; Your Professional Relations, Vice-President of Commonwealth National Bank; Workshop on Estate Planning Problems, Discussion Group. Panel Discussions on Solutions to Problems.

The conference will be held at the Embers Restaurant, Carlisle, January 4, 1979 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. A registration fee of $25.00 must be sent to Roland Freund, Penn State Extension Service, 1100 Claremont Road, Carlisle, Pa. Reservations must be in by December 30, 1978.

It's Christmas again and time to say how much it means to have the friendship and good will of folks like you. Accept our sincere thanks and warm wishes for a

Walker requests oil price inquiry

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Congressman Bob Walker (R-16-Pa.) has charged that the holiday gasoline price hike by the nation's major oil companies makes them appear as the "Scrooge of Christmas present."

The charge came in a letter to Energy Secretary James Schlesinger in which Walker requested that all Department of Energy (DOE) information regarding the oil industry's price hike action be made available to the public.

"I have made this request so that the American gasoline consumer has the opportunity to judge whether or not this action by the oil industry is fair," Walker said.

"The big oil companies claim no shortage of crude oil which makes their claim of short supplies and the need for price hikes highly questionable," he continued.

Walker noted that while the big oil companies are relying on an argument of reduced refinery capacity, that "flies in the face" of recent demands by these same companies that their own retail gasoline dealers increase sales volumes.

"I am left with the impression that the holiday price increase in unneeded, unconscionable and highly inflationary.

"If that impression is correct, the oil companies would appear to be the 'Scrooge of Christmas present,'" he continued.

Walker concluded by saying he believed the only way for that impression to be verified or denied is for the DOE to provide the American people all the facts with which to make their own judgment.

Wait 'til the FBI reads this letter to Santa!

With Christmas just around the corner, the boys have once again dictated a letter to Santa Claus. Following are some excerpts from their message to the jolly old fellow, along with some observations on their thoughts and behavior

Paul, 6, starts his letter by making sure Santa will be in a good mood when he reads his letter His salutation is: Dear Santa Claus, you are so nice.

Karl, 4, obviously agrees with that assessment. The other day he told his mother he wanted Santa Claus for a Daddy He's ready to trade me in!

Continuing to make sure that he'll give dear old Santa a highly favorable impression, Paul enclosed "a hundred dollars" which he made all by himself "It's so you can buy lots of hay for your reindeer," he instructed Explaining the "hundred dollars" he made all by himself, Paul pointed to the picture in the center and said. "That's not a girl, that's George Washington." I'm sure the IRS and FBI are interested in that information

Karl

Anyway, Paul proceeds to tell Santa that we moved. We now have a fireplace "I want you to go down our chimney, instead of through the doorway," the little fellow wrote.

Then comes the long list of what he wants for Christmas

"I might want a toy flashlight just like our Dad's, and bring a lot of batteries in case we run out of electricity I'm only going to use it when it's dark out."

Despite the fact that he can make his own currency, the little fellow nonetheless asked Santa for some play money.

"I go to school," he continued. "They have great, great, great, great, great, great big blocks that are so large - about that big - that I play with a lot. They are almost as big as the window

"I lost my four teeth, but the two on the bottom are growing but they are still little. The two on top are not growing.

"I also want some toy trees that are green but feel like real ones. And a rollercoaster. And my own hundred dollars, real ones, for me

"I want to go to Romper Room sometime. I like it there And another flashlight for Karl. And more dollies for Heidi. And I want a toy robber shop where you cut their hay with Playdoh.

"And I want that thing with water and snow in that you shake up and it has Baby Jesus and Mary and Moses - no, no that was Joseph That snowy thing broke, it was cracked a little. I got it from Santa Claus and Mrs. Schreiber in my nursery school last year.

"And I want a real horn that is real loud, that you can blow softly and loud. But I don't want anyone else to blow in it. That's why I don't blow Karl's horn so much, afraid it might have germs in it

"Oh yeah, and a toy totem pole, an awful big one. Big as my great big blocks that we have at school that are awful big and large.

"And I want to get a hoop so when I go like this it goes around on my hips. A hula hoop. I know how to do it.

"And I want Mom to get a thing that cuts up food and then she doesn't have to do it. Just put some in, and just wind up to it. And a little TV for me that I can take to bed with me and watch in case I'm not tired and stuff. And I can watch all the cartoons in the world.

A season to sow, a season to reap
Working the land held in our keep

With these words, the men and women of farming perform their varied activities throughout the changing seasons each year.

While their methods have been revolutionized from previous hard and tedious manual tasks to present modern mechanized efficiency, their role as keepers of the land remains largely unchanged. They prepare, care for and harvest the foundation of life itself

Now is their season to plan for yet another season of rebirth of the land As one year ends and another begins, let's remember these keepers of the land and the life-giving meanng they impart to the seasons

Dreams of being a reindeer

By KENDACE BORRY

Marty the lamb stood in the corner of the barnyard dreaming again

As a result, his mother had to come looking for him

"Marty," she called. "Where are you and what are you doing? You come in for supper right now!"

Reluctantly, Marty started for the barn He really didn't want any supper. All he wanted to do was dream.

"Baaaa, what were you thinking about, Marty?" his mother asked

"About Santa Claus and his reindeer," Marty answered "When I grow up I want to be one of Santa's reindeer!"

"Haaaa!" Marty's sister Mary snorted "When you grow up you're going to be a sheep just like the rest of us You can't be a reindeer "

Oh, yes I can, thought Marty But he kept his thoughts to himself and quietly ate his hay.

But Marty had already made up his mind that come Christmas Eve, he was going to run away with Santa and become one of his famous flying reindeer He was sure that Santa would take him, if he would only ask. Hadn't he been practicing his leaps and bounds since last Summer? All he needed was a little help from Santa and he would be able to fly

So when Christmas Eve came, and all the other sheep were in the barn resting and thinking of the presents that they would find in the morning, Marty was standing alone out in the barnyard, shivering and waiting

At last he heard a distant sound of sleigh bells, and soon Santa came into sight He landed his sleigh on the barn, slid down the roof, and landed beside the jumping-for-joy Marty

"It's Santa, it's Santa, it's really Santa," he kept repeating

"Ho ho, ho, my little friend," Santa laughed "What are you doing up so late? Don't you know that all good little sheep should be in the stable ?"

"Oh, Santa, I just had to talk to you," Marty baaed out "I want to be a reindeer and go with you every Christmas Eve Won't you please take me with you, pleeeze?"

Dauphin County DHIA Monthly Report

NOVEMBER 1978

The race for top milk production was a close one, according to summations of lactations that were completed in Dauphin County last month. It turned out to be a duel between "Styne" of Restful Acres and "Lolly" of Stoney Lawn Farms. "Styne," a 3-year old Holstein, narrowly edged her competitor by a score of 25,606 pounds to 25,541 pounds. "Lolly" is also a 3-year old. In butterfat, the two came up with 896 and 731 pounds, respectively. "Styne" placed second in the butterfat race, leaving top honors to "Sunshine," a 6-year old Holstein in the J. Melvin Brandt herd. "Sunshine's" credentials for the recently completed lactation read as follows: 21,873 pounds of milk, 4.3%, 933 pounds of butterfat.

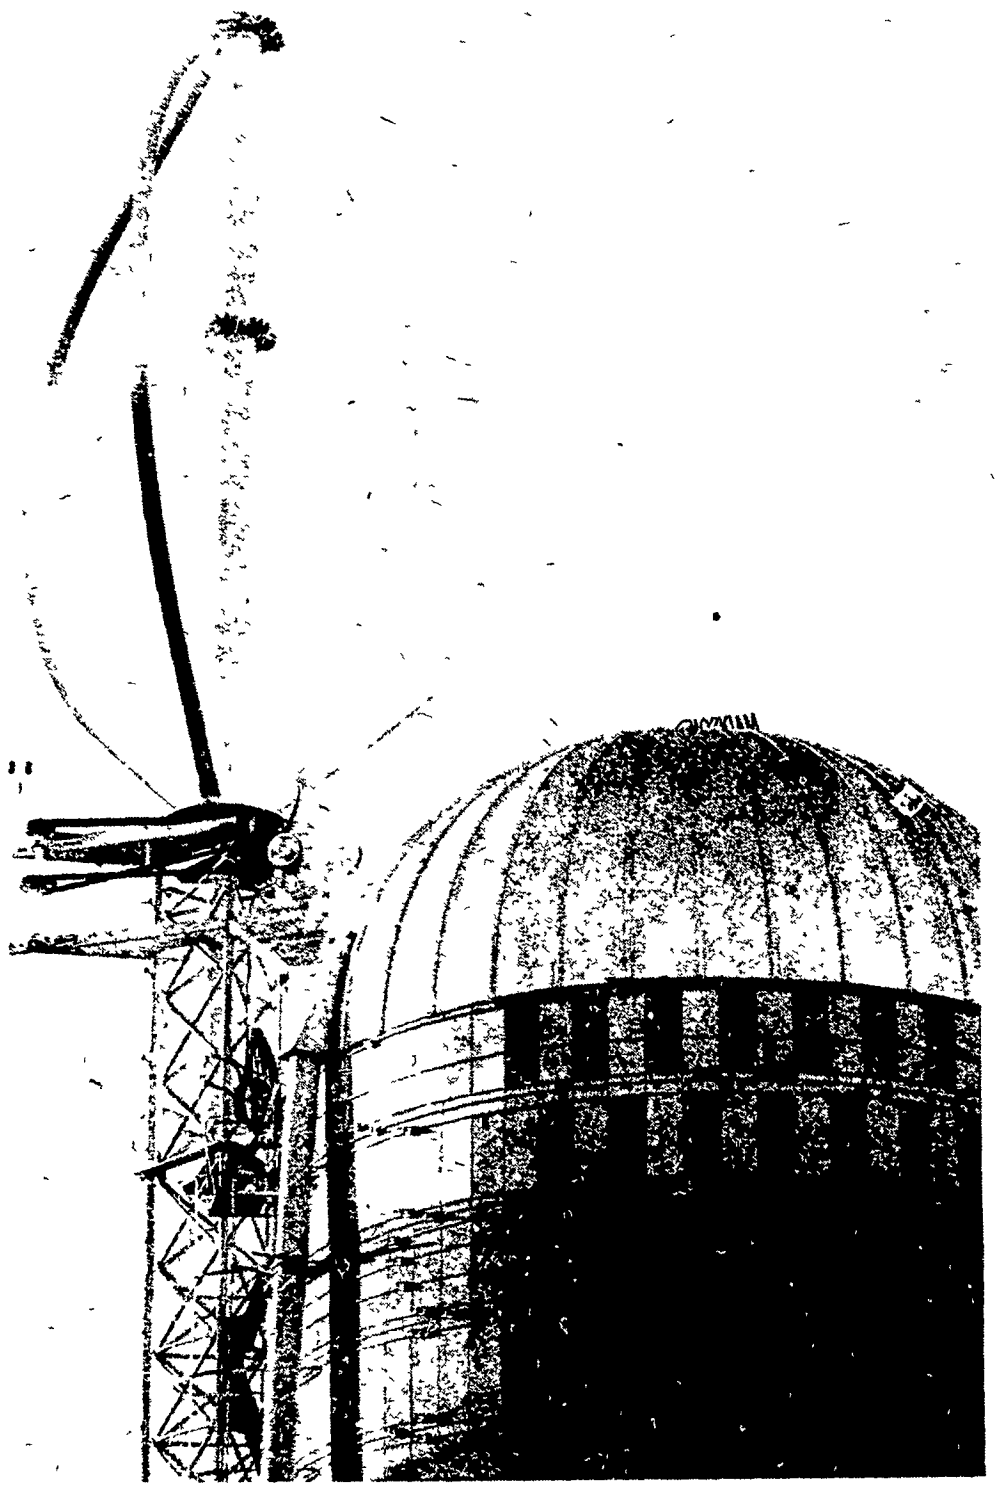
Silo's windmill may provide farm's electricity

MADISON, Wisc. – If Chromalloy Farm Systems has its way, a Madison silo of the future will do more than process and store silage. It will also function as the tower for a unique, wind turbine generating system which can provide much of the electric power required to operate a farmstead.

For the past year, Chromalloy Farm Systems Division, headquartered here, has been participating with several other commercial firms in a privately funded wind energy research project at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, New York. Other participants are Agway, Inc., Niagara Mohawk Power Corporation, Aluminum Company of America, Allen Bradley Company, Reliance Electric Company, Sign X Laboratories, Inc., Unarco Rohn Division of Unarco Industries and PCB Piezotronics, Inc. Project manager is Dr. Edward B. Kear, chairman of Clarkson College Mechanical and Industrial Engineering Department.

A dedication and demonstration of the unique research unit was held at the Clarkson College Wind Energy Test site last month. It was attended by officials from various government energy agencies and by executives of the industries sponsoring the project.



Resembling a giant egg beater, the world's first silo-mounted "Darrieus" wind turbine is attached to the outside of a Madison silo in a privately funded wind energy research project at Clarkson College of Technology, Potsdam, New York.

Inflation is agriculture's biggest problem

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. – Inflation has now become agriculture's number one economic problem and unless it is brought under control producer-consumer confidence in the U.S food system will be seriously threatened.

This is one of the major conclusions presented earlier this month at the National Farm Summit in a task force report on Resource Allocation and Production Costs for U. S. Agriculture. The report was drafted by Dr. Emery Castle of Washington, D.C., who is vic president of Resources for the Future, an organization that conducts economic research on major issues.

To control inflation the Task Force recommended greater restraint in government spending and a program which would limit wage increases to productivity gains and provide for mandatory indexing of prices and costs.

Major resource problems facing agriculture were cited as chronic inflation, inadequate market information, tax inequities, rapidly rising land values and land use planning.

To deal with problems of non-competitive pricing, the Task Force recommended improvements in information. Particular information needs concerned prices in input markets, the terms of contracts, weather and pest information.

A major change in tax policy which tied taxes to real income – as opposed to property, sales or actual income -- was recommended.

Different tax rates on different sources of income were cited as a major source of resource investment and allocation distortions in agriculture.

"A fundamental problem of resource allocation and producton costs in U.S. agriculture is our failure to distinguish between those factors resulting in fundamental changes in the social environment affecting agriculture and those forces causing transitory changes," Castle declared.

He said the history of U.S. agriculture is replete with examples of government responding to short run, transitory phenomena in such a way as to make long run adjustment more difficult.

The Task Force noted that "Farm land prices have increased beyond the level that can be sustained by the contribution of land to farm income." The solution to this problem does not, however, lie in government intervention in the market for land, members added.

"Instead, agricultural programs must be geared to producing increased stability of farm income in recognition of fundamentals as opposed to transitory changes in agriculture," Castle said.

The Task Force suggested increased educational programs in land use planning as a means of reaching a concensus on land use control. Members also recommended a removal of the 160-acre limitation on the use of water from federal irrigation projects.

Christ is Born

His name shall be called Wonderful The Mighty God... The Prince of Peace! Let us adore Him and give thanks that we are free to share the Blessings of His Love.

Christ was born in a barn, lying in a manger. Shepherds (farmers) were chosen to be first to hear the message "unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:11
As you work in your barn this Christmas season, remember how important you are to God and to us. Your continued devotion to good stewardship of your land, and your work of feeding us is one of the greatest gifts each of us receives this Christmas.

For these blessings, and for your enduring faith and trust in us, we say thanks.

The Sperry New Holland Dealers in your area wish you a Blessed Christmas and a Happy New Year!

First pet teaches many lessons

By LYNN HERSHEY
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. – My towheaded 11-year-old niece Claudia is a child of nature. She adores any creature that walks, hops, or crawls on two or more legs – or no legs at all, as in the case of earthworms. After a rain she carefully picks up all the earthworms that have wandered onto the concrete driveway and places them tenderly in the grass so they won't get run over.

Once when she was five Claudia held her closed fist outstretched to me with a sweet smile. "Here, Auntie," she said. I received her gift in my hand – a collection of moist grubs, beetles, and balled-up pill bugs she'd been carrying around in her pocket. I tried to act pleased but didn't carry it off too well.

Claudia loves Summer when all the creatures are out. Even on the hottest days she wears her T-shirt tucked inside her shorts so she can carry frogs around her middle, safe underneath the shirt. Sometimes her midsection is so jiggly with activated frogs that she goes into a fit of giggles while faint-hearted grownups grow pale.

Lynn Hershey

Her room looks like a zoo. There's a tank of tropical fish in one corner. A hermit crab hangs out in another. In the middle of the floor are cages for her gerbils and hamsters, presently numbering six. An unflappable cat, who is somehow compatible with this assortment, frequently naps on the bed.

Recently when my husband and I spent several days at Claudia's house, Hormel the hamster sneaked out of his cage and disappeared. "He'll come out when he gets hungry," said an unperturbed Claudia.

Hormel got hungry about 2 a.m. under our bed where he had been hiding. He began chewing noisily on our slippers and the lamp cord, finally allowing us to grab him and return him to his cage.

Parents who can take this sort of circus in stride will find that children benefit in many ways from having a pet.

Dr. Patricia Nelson, Delaware Extension specialist in family and child development, says a pet can expand a child's horizons and initiate a concern for other creatures and for the natural environment. By watching pets and caring for them, children learn about their needs for food, water, sleep, excercise, cleanliness, shelter, gentle handling. There may even be opportunities to witness the miracle of birth.

When a pet dies and parents help a youngster bury it with love and dignity, a child learns in a natural way to accept death as a part of life.

A pet may be one of the first real responsibilities a child will have, so be sure your son or daughter is ready, says Dr. Nelson. A youngster should be old enough to understand that an animal is not a toy but a living creature to be cherished and faithfully cared for.

Christmas may not be the best time for a pet to join the family. Extension veterinarians say puppies and kittens are especially vulnerable to personality damage during their adjustment to new surroundings. Because of all the extra confusion and activity during the holidays, a new pet could either be neglected or handled too much, and tragedy could result.

When the time is right, though, choose a healthy animal from sanitary surroundings. Be sure your youngster knows how to care for it properly. If appropriate, take it to a veterinarian for an examination, immunizations, and advice on care and feeding.

Speaking of veterinarians, guess what Claudia wants to be when she grows up?

Letter to Santa

Paul's list goes on and on Among other things, he wants all the musical instruments in the world, sunglasses, colored feathers, great big bricks to go with the great big blocks, a toy Indian chief, his own Christmas tree, lots of wind-up cars that make a noise like Daddy's car, a starfish, an aquarium and a horsev

Karl wasn't quite as lengthy with his list He got right down to business and told Saint Nick that all he wanted was a racetrack with lots of cars on it, that's all

Nonetheless, poor old Santa will have to make a couple trips to fill the orders.

Have a merry Christmas, everyone!

Hay, corn contest held

LEBANON, - A hay contest was held by the Cedar Crest Young Farmers at the Cedar Crest High School on December 5. Taking the honors in the alfalfa class was I. Hershey Bare, Lebanon R2, whose sample of fourth cutting was selected as the grand champion in quality. This field of DeKalb 127 alfalfa also placed first in the Pennsylvania Alfalfa Yield Contest held this year and was recognized at the recent Forage and Corn Conference held at Penn State. The four cutting yielded a total of 8.71 tons per acre.

In the first cutting alfalfa class, Scott Balsbaugh's Lebanon R1, sample slice placed first, and Ferndale Farms, Lebanon R1, placed second. In the second to fourth cutting class, I. Hershey Bare's sample placed first and Arnold Acres, Lebanon R2, placed second.

Dick Kreider, Lebanon R2, with a field of Pioneer 3184 placed first in the corn yield contest with a yield of 162.4 bushels per acre. Ferndale Farms placed second with a yield of 161.1 bushels per acre with Funk-G4636. Third place yield went to Galen Boyd with Schlessmans 700 yielding 160.8 bushels per acre.

Also during the evening was the election of the 1979 officers. Officers elected were: Carl Reist, president; Leon Arnold, vice-president; Mike Arnold, secretary; Clifford Groff, treasurer; and Albert Moyer, public relations director. The young farmer advisor is Dick Moore.

The next meeting is planned for December 19 in the high school vocational agriculture department beginning at 7:30 p.m. The program will be "The Compaction of Agricultural Soils.", describing the causes of soil compaction and what can be done to alleviate the problem.

Safe driving urged for holidays, always

Last year, more deaths occurred on Pennsylvania's highways during Christmas week than any other week in the year. Many of these deaths resulted from party-goers who mixed drinking and driving. To help Pennsylvanian's plan safe holiday parties this year, the Governor's Traffic Safety Council is distributing the pamphlet "Keep the Life of the Party Alive." Interested persons can obtain the pamphlet by writing to - Party Guide, 1214 Transportation and Safety Building, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.

NFU pressing for open books in foreign ownership of farmland

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Disclosure reports of alien holders of U.S. farmland, required under Public Law 95-460, must be open to public inspection immediately, National Farmers Union said last week in testimony at an ASCS hearing relative to the Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978. Bob Mullins, assistant legislative director, made the assertion in commenting on USDA's proposed rules for administration of the new law, which Farmers Union had spearheaded in the past session of Congress.

"There is no confidentiality in these disclosure reports," Mullins noted. "Congress passed this bill because it wanted early answers and the law specifically sets out the manner in which reports must be open to examination by any interested party."

Noting that some have contended that the data should first be analyzed or evaluated, Mullins contended that "there must not be any delay, any screening, any editing, or any cover-up. The law intends that the people and the appropriate state agencies see these disclosure reports in their original form."

Mullins observed that the administrative rules must be issued by Jan. 12, 1979, or earlier, and that the law requires disclosure of new acquisitions within 90 days and existing holdings within 180 days. First reports presumably then will be received by April 12 with public inspection permitted beginning April 22. Reports on existing holdings would be due July 11, with inspection allowed ten days later. First submission of reports by USDA to state departments of agriculture would be due Aug. 12, and would be issued semiannually thereafter.

The Farmers Union spokesman told the hearing officer that the data which will be forthcoming will be useful to members of state Farmers Union organizations in determining whether restrictive legislation on alien ownership or control is needed.

"Over the years, our State Unions which have pressed for legislation on alien or corporate land ownership of operation, have found themselves inhibited by the sheer difficulty in proving the extent of foreign investment and control," Mullins said.

He advocated that USDA vigorously press its inquiry into the real and ultimate ownership or control of American farmland by foreign persons or entities.

"The law says that 'any interest' must be disclosed and we think that this term should be defined as any interest whether through direct ownership, in whole or in part, leaseholds, options, contracts for deed, trust arrangements, life estates, stock ownership, or easement," he explained, urging that the veil of concealment be pierced if necessary by going through several levels of ownership.

Farmers Union urged that there be aggressive enforcement of civil penalties upon aliens who fail to make the required disclosure. The law provides for penalties up to 25% of the value of the property for failure to make the disclosure, or for making false reports.

(The above was reprinted from the Dec. 15, 1978 edition of the National Farmers Union's Washington Letter.)

Farmer's price drops

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Prices farmers received for their products during the month ending Nov. 15 were 1½ per cent below the previous month's average while the prices they paid for their production costs remained the same, according to monthly figures released by USDA. A drop in prices received for meat animals and fruit was not entirely offset by increases in poultry and eggs, feed grains and hay, dairy products and vegetables.

Fruit producers took a 15 percent drop in prices during the month with beef cattle farmers absorbing a 5 percent decline. Poultry and egg prices were up 4 percent, feed grains and hay up 2 percent, and vegetables were 5 percent higher. While the cost of feeder livestock was down 3 percent, feed, vehicles and supplies rose an average of the same percentage.

The parity ratio for all commodities for the month dropped to 70 percent. Beef cattle and manufacturing milk were the only commodities earning prices better than 80 percent of parity.

Federal budget cut will leave USDA bleeding

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Reduced federal government spending is part of the President's inflation control strategy. The President's goal is to reduce the current 1979 budget deficit of $38.8 billion to $30 billion in fiscal year 1980 and to balance the federal budget in fiscal year 1981, which begins on Oct. 1, 1980. If this timetable for fiscal austerity is to be achieved, there will be blood on the carpet at USDA when the new budget message is sent to Congress on Jan. 22.

The current (1979) USDA budget is $18.3 billion. If inflation persists at a 7% average rate, it would presumably cost $19.5 billion for the same programs in the 1980 budget. Agriculture's proportionate share of the net 18.8-billion decrease in federal spending, sought by the President, would be about $400 million, so the budget experts in the Office of Management and Budget will have to find potential economies of about $1.6 billion in USDA programs for 1980.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, speaking at New Orleans on Nov. 30, said there would have to be some "stringent belt-tightening" at USDA to meet the President's goal of cutting the 1980 budget deficit to $30 billion.

Bergland, however, declared that "high priority programs affecting farm income, farm exports, human nutrition and some others will not be materially changed."

"It would be folly and self-defeating to tinker with programs that might endanger food production and consumption," Bergland said. "This could only lead to more inflation. It would be senseless not to continue our export programs in view of our large surpluses of wheat and feed gains and the vital importance of our farm exports in reducing our balance of payments to strengthen the dollar."

Where to find places to cut the USDA budget will be a puzzle:

• The farm price and income stabilization programs, budgeted to cost $5.5 billion in 1979, will obviously cost more in fiscal 1980.

• The food stamp and child nutrition programs, which are costing near to $7 billion in 1979, are bound to increase in fiscal 1980 under the current formulas. (Legislation would have to be approved to change benefits and costs.)

The Administration budget-cutters will probably recommend some of the same cuts which congress, in its wisdom, has repeatedly rejected in recent years – namely, to terminate the special milk program ($142 million in 1979) and the ACP program ($190 million in 1979.)

Other likely targets for some reduction are the Soil Conservation Service ($496 million in 1979, down from 1978 by $27 million), the Food for Peace program ($805 million in 1979), the Agricultural Research Service ($380 million in 1979) and the Federal Extension Service ($275 million in 1979).

It appears unlikely that anything near $1.6 billion in reductions can be found without serious damage – without blood on the carpet.

The Administration may simply have to end up underestimating what the programs will cost. This tactic makes the executive branch look good at budget-making time and the Congress look bad when needed funds must be voted.

Overlooked in this whole process is the fact that it is almost impossible to balance the federal budget in times of low farm prices and high unemployment. One authority has estimated that in a full-employment, full-parity, and full-production economy, the current federal budget would have a surplus of about $100 billion instead of a deficit of $38.8 billion.

Also still being overlooked by high policymakers is the fact that approval of an international wheat agreement with a price floor of $4.00 a bushel would sharply reduce the cost of the domestic wheat stabilization program and improve the U.S. balance of payments.

(The above was re-printed from the Dec. 8, 1978 edition of the National Farmers Union's Washington Newsletter.)

Belden named to FCA office

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Sanford A. Belden, 36, of Auburn, Maine, has been named deputy governor, Office of Administration, Farm Credit Administration, FCA Governor Donald E. Wilkinson has announced.

Belden's appointment is effective January 1,1979. He replaces Jon F. Greeneisen, who now is vice president, Central Bank for Cooperatives, Denver.

FCA is an independent Federal agency which supervises the Farm Credit System, made up of agricultural lending institutions organized as cooperatives and owned by their member-borrowers. The System, with loan volume of more than $40 billion a year and $46 billion in loans outstanding, provides about one-third of the credit used by U.S. farmers and ranchers and two-thirds of that used by cooperatives.

FCA's Office of Administration included the agency's Administrative, Congressional Affairs, Economic Analysis, Personnel, and Public Affairs Divisions.

Belden, a native of Hatfield, Massachusetts, has a Ph.D. in agricultural economics from Purdue University. From 1972 to 1975, he was director of a new business development, assistant vice president, and vice president of the Farm Credit Banks of Springfield, Mass. Since 1975, he had been general manager of the Farmers Production Credit Association of Southern Maine and Federal Land Bank Association of Southern Maine in Auburn.

Before joining the Springfield Farm Credit Banks, Belden was a staff member of Purdue and Cornell Universities, and was a market research analyst for a farm machinery manufacturer and co-manager of a family farm.

ASCS grain checks distributed

WASHINGTON, D.C. – County offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) earlier this month began distributing $601 million in 1978 wheat and feed grain program payments to eligible wheat and barley producers.

The 556,226 drafts represent more than 85 per cent of payments due wheat and barley farmers under the deficiency payment and haying and grazing provisions of the 1978 farm programs. On Dec. 1, Ray Fitzgerald, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's agency, estimated wheat producers would receive $620 million and barley producers $83 million.

Under the deficiency payment provision, wheat producers will receive $531,518,048 and barley producers $68,568,075. Haying and grazing payment checks for wheat farmers, totaling $415,574, are in addition to $20 million paid out earlier under this program provision.

Eligible wheat and barley producers who have not filed payment application forms should do so as soon as possible through their local county ASCS offices, Fitzgerald said. Disbursements cannot be made until applications are submitted and approved.

Deficiency payments are to make up the difference between the government-established target price and the higher of either the national average market price during the first five months of the marketing year or the national loan rate.

The deficiency payment rate for eligible 1978 wheat is 52 cents a bushel – the difference between the $3.40 target price and the $2.83 average market price. The deficiency payment rate for eligible 1978 barley is 35 cents a bushel – the difference between the $2.25 target price and the $1.90 average market price.

For wheat acreage grazed or hayed under the 1978 wheat program, farmers will receive 52 cents per bushel. Producers who received 50 cents per bushel as an advance payment will receive an additional 2 cents. Program participants under this provision were guaranteed the higher of the 1978 wheat deficiency payment rate or 50 cents.

Corn and grain sorghum deficiency payments, if authorized, will be made in April. The first five months of the marketing year for these grains ends Feb. 28 and the data to compute payment will not be available until the end of March.

Relaxed soybean exports favored

ST. LOUIS, Mo. – The American Soybean Association (ASA) has announced its opposition to more stringent controls on export reporting.

"More stringent reporting would make the United States a less attractive seller because buyers often prefer to remain anonymous," Allan Aves, ASA first vice president, said in testimony Thursday, December 14 before the USDA Advisory Committee on Export Sales Reporting. "More stringent reporting would lessen the seller's willingness to take risks which could result in fewer sales of soybeans. Reporting cost would balloon and probably create increased bureaucratic paperwork. And, the reporting requirements would favor large exporters who could avoid the requirements by selling products through their foreign affiliates."

Aves told the committee that additional government restrictions on exports could hurt the $6.3 billion soybean export market.

"Farm exports help curb inflation," Aves said. "The financial blow to farmers and our economy from the loss of export sales would far outweigh the advantages from more stringent export sales reporting. Our balance of trade cannot afford to lose any of that $6.3 billion of soybean exports."

Aves said the soybean association recommends: strengthening of supply/demand reports with weekly or twice weekly reports; reducing reporting requirements when more than a year's supply of soybeans is on hand; increasing efforts to improve communications between USDA and industry; developing a voluntary program by the grain industry of reporting sales by their foreign affiliates; and insuring future reporting requirements not hinder export sales of soybeans.

Hospital patients with an agricultural background seem to be as healthy or slightly healthier than patients with no agricultural history, according to a rural health study conducted in Minnesota for OSHA.

Santa looked at the little lamb thoughtfully.

"You want to be a reindeer?" he asked. "But you're a great big beautiful lamb. Why do you want to be a reindeer?"

"Oh, Santa, it's no fun being a sheep. I have to follow my mother around every day and we never get to go anywhere. It's just no fun!" he pouted.

"But Marty," Santa gravely shook his head. "I can't take you with me. How would your mother and sister feel? They'd cry. And besides your master, Billy, he would feel terrible, because he has big plans for you."

Santa leaned down closer to the lamb. "But I can tell you a big secret," he whispered.

"In January, you are going to get to travel, and you're going to be the best sheep, at a great big show called the Pennsylvania Farm Show. There you will be paraded around and shown off, and you will be very proud to be a sheep. Now do you want to miss that and go with me?"

"Wellll," baaed the lamb, "maybe I better stay around here then. Are you sure all this is going to happen?"

"Would Santa tell a lie?" the jolly man answered. "I'll be thinking of you in January, but now you better go inside where you can get warm and I can start to get to my work."

So in to the barn little Marty scampered to nestle close to his mother and dream But this time he didn't dream about Santa and his reindeer. Now his dreams were filled with purple and blue ribbons and championship placings.

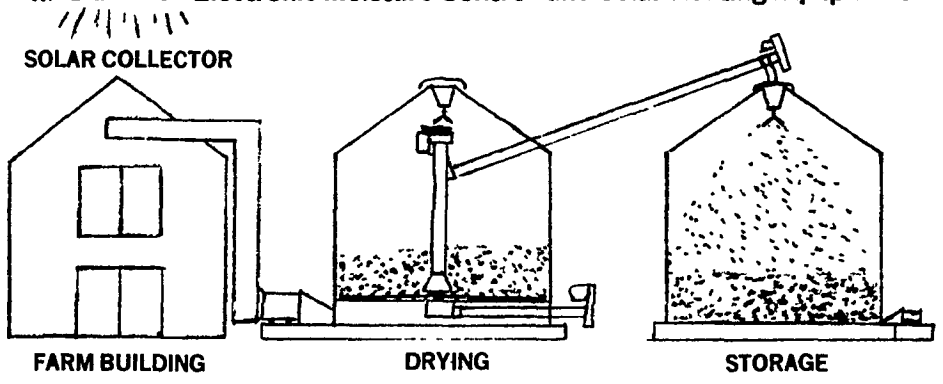
FLOW-MOORE CONTINUOUS FLOW DRYING SYSTEM

w/ NEW Electronic Moisture Control and Solar Heating Equipment



The Most Economical Fast Drying System Up To 50% Fuel Savings

ONLY $3865 For Flow Moore Unit w/7½ HP motor, electric panel & moisture control for 36 ft bin

HOW IT WORKS Wet grain may be deposited into the top of the drying bin as fast as you harvest As soon as the bottom layer of grain is dry enough the two tapered sweep augers draw it to the center of the bin, where it's picked up by the 8" vertical auger On a single bin operation the dry grain is respread on top by the recirculation spreader With two bins grain can be transferred to the second bin with up to 22% moisture where it's cooled and dried down to the desired level The electronic moisture censor mounted on the side of the vertical auger monitors the grain When the grain moisture exceeds the knob setting on the control panel, the augers are stopped until the grain is dry enough The system operates automatically 24 hours a day without babysitting

FEATURES
- Up to 50% Fuel Savings (no heat loss) Heat is absorbed as it passes up through the wet grain at the same time grain is preheated as it moves down to the final drying area
- New Electronic Moisture Control - assures an accurate dry grain moisture level, regardless of extreme harvesting variations (not affected by temperature)
- Two Taper Sweep Augers - assures positive movement and blends grain (no stalling)
- 8" Vertical Auger - increased capacity
- Less Moving Parts - only one gear box (not two) less maintenance

WANTED - DEALERS & SALESMEN IN SOME AREAS OF: N.Y., Pa., N.J., Del., Md., Va., & W. Va.

Financing arranged through ASCS, Production Credit, leasing companies or your local bank.

Rice, Dumbelle herds set records for Perry Co.

NEW BLOOMFIELD – All time high Perry County dairy production records were announced at the annual meetings of the Perry County Dairy Herd Improvement Association and the Perry County Holstein Club. Mary E. Rice, Blain, had the highest average butterfat per cow with 739 pounds. Dumbelle Farm, Landisburg R1, was the first to average over 19,000 pounds of milk with a 19,205 pound per cow average.

Average records for the county were also set with 3161 cows averaging 15,446 pounds of milk and 587 pounds of butterfat according to County Agent Roy F. Snyder.

Carl McMillen, Loysville R1, Ben Dum, Elliottsburg R1, and R. Walter Stydinger, Elliottsburg R1 were reelected president, vice president and treasurer, respectively, of the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Kenneth Benner, Millerstown R2, was elected director. David Weller, Elliottsburg, and Nevin Rice, Blain, are also directors.

The Holstein Club also reelected Keith Martin of Loysville R1 as president, Roy E. Hall, Millerstown, R1, as secretary-treasurer and Ray McMillen, Loysville R1, as State Director. Richard Maurer, Newport R1, was elected vice president. David Houser, New Bloomfield R2, and Bonie Blumenschein and Fred Neely of Loysville R2, serve as directors.

Donald Ace, Extension dairyman, of Penn State, was guest speaker. He explained new D.H.I. programs available to dairymen and outlined the benefits of the Somatic Cell Count procedures to dairy managers.

High production herds in Perry county for 1978 were as follows: Mary E. Rice, 18,670 milk, 739 butterfat; Carl E. McMillen, 18,646 milk, 729 butterfat; Milmay Farm, 18,629 milk, 724 butterfat; Delmar Brofee & Sons, 18,915 milk, 718 butterfat; Ray E. McMillen, 18,653 milk, 698 butterfat; Alfred Albright, 18,542 milk, 696 butterfat; Dumbelle Farms, 19,205 milk, 694 butterfat; Richard L. Maurer, 17,309 milk, 681 butterfat; Benjamin E. Dum, 17,945 milk, 678 butterfat; Kenneth R. Benner, 17,743 milk, 667 butterfat, Donald Dum, 17,623 milk, 662 butterfat, Milligan Bros., 17,437 milk, 656 butterfat, Frank Rice, 16,886 milk, 644 butterfat, John E. Book, 16,128 milk, 641 butterfat, Robert Gabel, 17,063 milk and 638 butterfat.

NEW YORK, N.Y. - The classification and pricing of milk under the New York-New Jersey federal milk marketing order would be revised under a U.S. Department of Agriculture final decision.

Herbert L. Forest, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, said USDA will hold a producer referendum to determine if producers favor issuance of the proposed amended order. At least two-thirds of the dairy farmers who participate in the referendum must approve the amended order if it is to go into effect.

Forest said this final decision is the same as the recommended or tentative decision published in the Oct. 11 Federal Register. The tentative decision is based on a public hearing in February 1976.

The only proposed change, Forest said, would classify milk shrinkage on essentially the same basis as in the adjacent Middle Atlantic milk order and in most other orders.

Shrinkage, Forest explained, is a term used to describe milk that a handler loses during handling and processing, such as through a pipeline leak. Under the order, a handler still must pay producers for such milk, based on the way the shrinkage was "classified."

Under the proposed change, shrinkage would be classified as Class II milk–the lowest priced use–as long as it does not exceed two percent of receipts from producers. Any excess shrinkage would be classified as Class I milk–the highest priced use.

Copies of this final decision are available from Market Administrator T. Wilson, 205 East 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017, who will serve as the referendum agent. Copies also are available from the Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Meat import decision expected soon

WASHINGTON, D.C. - On about the 28th or 29th of December, the Carter Administration will have to make some important decisions about meat import policy for 1979. A forecast will have to be made on the likely volume of imports for 1979 and, if the total exceeds the trigger level computed under the Meat Import Act of 1964, the law requires that import quotas will be invoked. However, the 1964 law has rarely been enforced and recent presidents have declared the quotas, then suspended them and negotiated voluntary restraint agreements with the shipping nations.

The most obvious option for the President to consider is to enforce the law. This would probably put the trigger level at about 1,250 million pounds, compared with the 1.5 billion pounds allowed by Carter in his decision easing import restrictions last June.

Livestock producers, still chafing about the June action and the veto of the Meat Import Act of 1978, were further un-nerved recently at rumors the President may set a 1.6-billion-pound level for voluntary restraint agreements for 1979.

Cattlemen, aware that the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability has been urging the lifting of beef import quotas entirely, are waiting to see whether assurances last Summer by President Carter and Vice President Mondale will be honored.

Mondale, in a speech at Topeka, Kansas, on July 14, declared that the Administration had rejected a policy of totally open-ended beef imports, such as the Nixon White House had allowed in 1972, 1973, and 1974.

Carter, himself, in a speech at Columbia, Mo., on Aug. 14, pledged that "I will not permit any more expansion in beef imports this year. I will not permit unrestricted beef imports next year." But, in a Washington meeting with cattle organization leaders, Carter would not make a commitment on policy for 1979, other than that it would not be an open-door policy on imports.

The new Congress is expected to again pass a bill placing meat import restrictions on a countercyclical basis, but it is uncertain whether the new law will be any more acceptable than the vetoed measure.
